LARGE EXPOSITION CROWD FINDS MUCH OF INTEREST ON FIRST NIGHT

Many Lines of Activity That Average Person Knows Little About Represented in One Place—Style Show Tonight Besides Other Entertainment.

Tonight's Program.

Wireless concert.
Orchestral concert.
Style show of fall and winter coats by ten beautiful local girls.
Also children's wear by younger models.

Aesthetic dancing by Marjorie Richards.
Dancing for all.

Exhibits in the industrial tent of the big exposition which opened at the Kingston Fair Grounds Thursday night cover a much wider range than was imagined by the large crowd which thronged the various tents.

All the exhibits are attractive and so inviting that a visitor must be possessed of extraordinary will power not to stop and accept the invitation to examine more closely which is presented by each individual exhibit in the big tent.

Midgets Meet Friends.

The famous Piccolo Midgets—Otto and Adolf Schenckel and Alex Ebert—seem perfectly at home dispensing insurance literature at the booth of Fowler & Decker, of which they have complete charge. Although they don't announce it, this is their first venture in the insurance business. The booth has been fitted up with special chairs and tables of size suitable for them, and sitting in their easy chairs, smoking cigars that seem almost as big as themselves, they attract much attention. The Midgets for a number of years have owned a farm near the Spillway and during their almost daily visits to Kingston they have become well acquainted in town, so they always have plenty of company around the Fowler & Decker booth. Many a longing glance is cast at the little table on which appear a cocktail shaker, cocktail glasses and decanter—all of them so empty that the only thing clinging to them is a happy memory—surmounted by the legend: "Them Days Have Gone Forever—Gone, But Not Forgotten."

Coney Island Staff of Life.

Forst's frankfurters on Salzmann's rolls, made on Barth's electric griddle and a ready market. The frankfurters, the rolls and the griddle are all "Made in Kingston." The booths of L. Barth & Son, Inc., Jacob Forst Company and Salzmann's bakery are in close proximity to each other in the central tier of booths. The Barth booth exhibits some of the products which are made in the Kingston plant of the company. Besides the electric griddle which is put to practical use, there is a Barth stove, a Barth refrigerator in which meats of the Forst Company are displayed, and many other articles of hotel and restaurant kitchenware of size suitable for any private residence. The Forst Company displays meats, and the Salzmann Bakery, in addition to the rolls which are so eagerly eaten with the Forst frankfurters, makes a special advertising display of Mother's Bread.

Gregory Has Biggest Display.

The biggest display in the industrial and merchandise tent is that of Gregory & Company, who occupy six spaces near the entrance. Their exhibit includes Rome equality products, couch beds, day beds, chairs and cots; Karpen furniture, Colonial furniture manufactured in their own shops; kitchen furnishings and Catalpa clothes washers. Additional lighting with the most modern and artistic electric fixtures and globes give their entire booth a most home-like appearance.

Books And Other Gifts.

Forsyth & Davis have selected a variety of articles from their store stock for the booth they occupy. They comprise a wide variety of books, including the latest fiction; talking machines of several designs, silverware, cut glass and many other articles suitable for gifts.

Large Clothing Assortment.

S. Cohen's Sons have filled their booth with an assortment of fine clothing which would permit an individual owner to boast of having the largest and finest wardrobe in town. There is everything which a man wears, all in the latest styles, and the arrangement of the articles forms a display that attracts much attention.

Our Own Shirts Shown.

The Fessenden Shirt Company displays shirts "Made in Kingston" in an abundance of styles and designs that furnish a fair idea of the magnitude of that industry. It would be impossible for the company to show everything it makes within such a limited space as a booth, but enough is shown to make the public appreciate the work of at least one Kingston factory.

Pride of Higginsville.

The E. Mullen Tobacco Company shows a large variety of tobacco in the leaf and also the finished product which for many years has been the source of the delight of tobacco users who prefer pure tobacco for smoking and chewing. Known locally as "The Pride of Higginsville," Mullen's tobacco has a wide sale and has been identified with the manufacturing and industrial life of Kingston for as long as most people can remember. The display of tobacco leaf and "Mullens" as it looks when ready for the market is an attractive one.

Magnetos Made Here.

Magnetos which are produced by the Apollo Magneto Company and which are doing much to spread the fame of Kingston attract considerable attention at the booth occupied by that company, whose display is of particular interest to motorists, who know from experience that the Apollo product is dependable.

Groceries for Everyone.

E. S. Craft & Son display almost as wide a variety of fine groceries as can be seen in their store, and besides they serve hot coffee which is made in the booth. Just how many kinds of groceries there are is not realized fully by a person visiting a store because they are spread over a considerable space, but in a large booth such as that occupied by Craft & Son, the variety becomes apparent and creates a sensation of wonderment.

Barrels for Everyone.

Barrels of all sizes, from the five-gallon cask up to the regulation size barrel holding fifty-two gallons, all "Made in Kingston" by the Kingston Cooperage Company, form a display that attracts as much practical attention as any display in the entire exposition. They are tight barrels, made of seasoned oak, some with bung-holes and some without, suitable for use in putting down sauerkraut, pickles, grape juice and fermented cider. The company, incidentally, has kept abreast of all other Kingston manufacturers in distributing its product over a wide area.

Lumber and Building Products.

The Kingston Lumber Corporation displays some samples of its many varieties of building materials which is attractive, and literature distributed at its booth gives the intending home builder or other kind of builder an excellent idea of the excellent products handled by that concern. H. W. Paien's Sons have built especially for the exposition an excellent representation of combination of office and waiting room, which shows to good advantage the wood-working products that for years have been shipped from the company's plant to supply many important public buildings. The office-waiting room is well furnished and numerous blue-prints indicate the extent of the company's work.

A Miniature Department Store.

R. G. R. occupies several spaces for a booth that is practically a miniature department store. Fine furniture, including a dining room set; furniture for the other rooms of the house; a complete kitchen outfit; some rare wearing apparel that appeals to feminine fancy and other things go to make up an exhibit that attracts much attention.

You See This Yarn.

The L. B. Van Wagenen Company has devoted its booth exclusively to a display of Minerva yarns and Minerva yarn products. There are all colors of yarn, whose brilliant combinations are alluring to everyone who has an eye for the beautiful or who simply uses knitting or crocheting needles without idea of beauty. The display must be seen to be appreciated.

Sweaters for Cold Weather.

The Wonderly Company presents a display of sweaters and scarfs in a variety of colors that look warm and comfortable as well as beautiful. Then there are other articles of apparel which are filmy and gauze-like, rather summery in appearance, but all having a place in the daily life of the woman who dresses well. The contrast of colors is delightful.

Comfort and Beauty Combined.

S. E. Eighmey shows a variety of articles of wearing apparel for women that combine both beauty and comfort. Women know how well a display of beautiful goods look in a window exhibit, but the window display cannot compare with the effect of goods gathered together in an artistically decorated booth, brilliantly lighted. So they all stop to admire the Eighmey exhibit.

Sporting Goods and Radio.

Charles A. Warren occupies a booth adjoining the entertainment tent and supplies the radio which delights audiences which gather there in the afternoon and evening. They can listen to the radioed voices of opera singers or famous instrumentalists while they examine guns, hunting knives and other supplies, or any other part of the large variety of sporting goods which represent the store stock of Mr. Warren.

Tombs, Too.

Byrne Brothers, the monument makers who have enlarged the area of their business activity until it takes in a good part of the Eastern states and New England, display several attractive monuments which were "Made in Kingston."

Go See Them All.

These are but a few of the many attractive exhibits at the exposition, all illustrating the busy industrial and commercial life of Kingston. They must all be seen to be enjoyed, and an afternoon and

AUTO EXHIBIT ONE OF CHIEF ATTRACTIONS AT THE EXPOSITION

Many Models Brought Out Since Armory Show are to be Seen From Fords and Stars to Cadillacs, Lincolns and Packards.

If you are not interested in anything else at the Exposition it is well worth while to go and visit the automobile exhibit. Here are found some of the finest cars on the market and even for those who are not contemplating the purchase of a car a visit to the big automobile tent, which is located right at the entrance, will prove interesting.

Immediately on entering the space of John Van Benschoten, local dealer for Dodge Brothers' cars, is on the right. Here are shown a Dodge touring car, truck, a coupe, sedan and one of the new "Business Man" sedans. This latest product of the Dodge Brothers' factory is constructed of steel, as is the Business Man's coupe, and the cushions on the seat, back and sides are removable so that a salesman may remove the upholstery and pack his sample cases in the rear of the car while on business and when pleasure bound have a regular sedan at his disposal. The upholstery is on genuine Spanish leather.

John D. Van Kleeck, of the Senate Garage, local agents for the Durand 4's and 6's is also in the entrance tent. His display is a Durand six touring car, a Durand four sedan and a touring car of the Star model with a Star chassis.

A classy Chesterfield model Cleveland, a Chandler touring car and a Cleveland sedan are shown by the Broadway Garage, local distributors for the Chandler and the Cleveland.

The first truck which is seen on entrance, and there are several shown at the show, is the Nash tour chassis shown by the Uster Garage, Ltd., which also shows Nash cars and Cadillac pleasure cars. A Nash five passenger touring car, a Nash sport car and a Nash sedan are shown and also a handsome model of the Cadillac sedan.

One of the largest exhibits at the show is that of the Stuyvesant Garage. Here a variety of cars are shown with a sport model of the Hupmobile at the center of attraction. In the four cylinder class are shown an Oldsmobile sport, an Oldsmobile touring car, a Maxwell sedan and touring car and five models of the Hupmobile. A Rex sedan Hupmobile, a touring car, a roadster and a regular sedan are shown along with the special sport model of Hup. Besides their display of pleasure cars the Stuyvesant Garage also shows a G. M. C. truck chassis.

Homor C. Kuhlmann of the Paige Detroit Company of Uster, local distributors for the Paige and the Paige-Jewett, shows a Jewett coupe and Jewett sedan, a handsome great Paige touring car and a four passenger model of the same make and color and a Paige coupe.

Southard & Beichert show a Liberty sedan and a touring car, and also a sedan model of their latest acquirement, the Gardner car. William P. Glass has two motor trucks on exhibition. A Traffic and a Larrabee 2 1/2 ton chassis.

The George J. Schryver Motor Car Company has one of the novelties of the show and one which attracts the attention of a large number of motorists. He shows one of the Chenango Camp trailers. This trailer is equipped for touring and has comfortable beds, tables and lockers. A refrigerator and stove are also provided for taking care of the culinary end for the motorist. Mr. Schryver also shows a Willys-Knight sedan, a touring car. Also an Overland sedan and a touring car.

Orren M. Kennedy of the Central Garage shows a Reo Speed-Wagon and two Reo touring cars, one a regular model with wood wheels and the other a classy model with disc wheels.

Stutiff, Inc., distributors for the Packard cars and trucks in Ulster and Dutchess counties, has a Packard Single-six sedan and a Packard Single-six touring car. Beside the pleasure cars a Packard 2 1/2 ton truck chassis is shown.

Three models of the Rickenbacker car are shown by the Columbia Garage. A model of Captain "Eddie's" coupe, a sedan and a touring car are shown. This car is attracting considerable attention on account of its new design.

Of course Henry Ford is represented. James Millard & Son Company, local distributors for the Ford and Lincoln cars have a display. There is a Ford sedan, a touring car and a coupe shown and a model of the latest Lincoln touring car, the big brother of the Ford.

Peter A. Black, distributor for the Hudson and Essex, has a half a dozen cars at his space. There is an Essex touring car, an Essex cab and a brown coach of the same make. In the Hudson model are shown a touring car, a coach and a sedan.

Way up near the entrance to the industrial tent is the exhibit of the Van Motor Company where "Dave" Schenck will tell you, "It's a Studebaker Year." Here seven Studebaker cars are shown and two Marmion cars.

In the Studebaker line are shown a Light Six sedan, a Light-six touring car and Light-six coupe. A Special six touring car of the same make and a Big-six touring car, coupe and sedan comprises a very complete line of Studebakers. The two Marmions are a suburban-sedan and a phaeton.

The Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Company has been unable to secure a complete line of cars for the opening day of the Exposition, but expect to have more cars as soon as they can be driven from the factory. At present they have a 3 1/2 ton model of the Pierce-Arrow truck, a Pierce-Arrow touring car and a 1922 model of the new Superior Chevrolet. This car is equipped with wire wheels and other improvements. It is a five passenger touring model.

W. J. McGrath, local distributor for the Buick cars, shows a line of fours and sixes in this popular make. A special sport model runabout of the six cylinder type is shown. In the four cylinder line are shown a five passenger touring sedan and a five passenger touring car. In the regular six cylinder model are shown a five passenger touring car, a five passenger sedan and a five passenger touring sedan.

BASCH WON HIS CHICKEN CASE AGAINST AUGUST NILSSON

Tale of an East Kingston Transaction in City Court.

After a trial before Judge Schirlick in city court this morning, Abram Basch of this city won his suit against August W. Nilsson of East Kingston. Basch was represented by Walter N. Gill while Walter Miller appeared for Nilsson. From the evidence as brought out at the trial, Basch made a deal with Nilsson to purchase twenty-six chickens and paid a dollar on deposit, agreeing to pay the balance the following week when he called for the chickens.

The next week Basch went after the chickens to learn that they had been sold to Mr. Bink of Katrine. Mr. Nilsson offered to return the dollar deposit, but Basch refused to accept it and brought suit to recover $31.

After hearing the evidence Judge Schirlick awarded Basch the full amount sued for with costs.

MEN'S CLUB

Held Pleasant Meeting at Church of Comforter Tuesday.

On Tuesday evening, the regular monthly business meeting of the Men's Club of the Church of the Comforter, was held in its club rooms. Many items of business were transacted for the welfare of the organization. The various committees for the ensuing year were appointed by the newly elected president, and it is the consensus of opinion that the club is looking forward to a very interesting and profitable year. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. Lucas Roewe, pastor of the First Reformed Church, who gave a very eloquent and forceful address concerning some of the important things that tend to make a life more worthwhile and useful in this world both spiritually, morally and politically. After the address, the usual fun and fellowship was indulged in, including refreshments served by Bob Carver and his corp of workers. The next meeting is to be held Tuesday evening, November 21st, and is to be of an educational stereopticon nature and also a surprise is in store and is to be a feature by the two D's.

Seats for Tolstoy Lecture.

So much interest is being shown in the lecture to be given tomorrow afternoon about 3:45 o'clock at the Eagle Hotel, by Count Hysa Tolstoy, that it has been arranged to have a few more chairs placed for the lecture. Therefore there will be a few more tickets for sale, and they may be purchased at the door, or at Dedrick's drug store, Burgevin's flower store and Forsyth and Davis. The Schoolwomen's Club, (Kingston Chapter) which is bringing Count Tolstoy to Kingston, will entertain the entire club of the Hudson River Valley at luncheon at the Eagle, at 1:30 o'clock.

Register before 10 tonight or after 7 tomorrow morning.

C. A. BALTZ BUYS MILLEN FACTORY

Will Remove His Field Court Business There Shortly, Making Extensive Improvements.

C. A. Baltz, the well known shirt manufacturer now located at Field Court, has bought the Millen shirt factory on Greenkill avenue and expects to move in his new place of business within the next week or as soon after as possible. Mr. Baltz by careful attention to his business has built up one of the substantial industries now located in Kingston, employing at the present time approximately 50 helpers, which force he expects to double as soon as possible, depending upon the demand for the articles which he manufactures and business conditions generally. Mr. Baltz's specialty is the manufacture of pajamas and night shirts. He expects to make extensive internal improvements in his new plant along the line of painting and redecorating.

Register before 10 o'clock tonight or Saturday.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT SAUGERTIES

Dunlop Warehouse Is Destroyed With Large Contents—Loss Estimated at $30,000—Origin Unknown.

The most disastrous fire Saugerties has had in years occurred about four o'clock Thursday morning, when the large warehouse of M. E. Dunlop, located alongside the West Shore Railroad tracks took fire. The loss is estimated at $30,000. The building, constructed of wood with the roof covered with sheet iron, burned fiercely and despite the efforts of the firemen was completely destroyed.

Discovery of the fire was made by the gateman at the West Shore, who turned in the alarm. When the firemen arrived the inside of the building was a seething mass of flames. The warehouse contained a large amount of grain, feed flour, etc. Only on Wednesday two earloads of feed had been brought in. How the conflagration started is still a mystery. Only partial insurance was carried on the building and stock.

STORE BURNED AT WAWARSING

Fire this morning at 2 o'clock destroyed a general store and residence property at Wawarsing, about two doors from the O. & W. railroad station toward Napanoch, with the contents. The store was conducted by a man named Emerick.

HALL-MILLS CASE NEAR A CLIMAX

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 20.—Prosecuting attorneys of Middlesex and Somerset counties are reported at loggerheads over investigation of the double murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and the beautiful choir singer, Mrs. James Mills, and the case appeared this afternoon to be swinging rapidly towards a dramatic climax.

The authorities of Middlesex county are satisfied that they know who killed the clergyman and Mrs. Mills and intend to demand that Prosecuting Attorney Beekman of Somerset county make one or more arrests. It was learned. If Beekman refuses to do so, the Middlesex county authorities probably will withdraw from the investigation.

Supper at Eddyville.

The ladies of the Eddyville M. E. Church are making extensive plans for a unique supper on Tuesday evening, October 31. Halloween night. Salads of all kinds, fish, meat, vegetable and fruit, will be served, also many other choice dishes to tempt the appetite. The ladies are endeavoring to maintain their reputation of serving good suppers and hope to see all their friends at the lecture room of the church on Halloween night.

Don't forget to register before 10 tonight.

Mothers' Hebrew Association.

The Mothers' Hebrew Association will hold a meeting at the Hebrew School, Sunday, October 22, at 3 p. m. for the purpose of election of officers.

On Sunday, October 22nd, weather conditions permitting, the Kingston Gas & Electric Company will change its method of electric distribution on all circuits in the city above O'Reilly street. This change over is in connection with the new construction work which the company is carrying on in its station at Jansen avenue, and on its distribution lines throughout the city. The new distribution lines will be placed in service for the first time on Sunday.

In order to make this change all circuits north of Broadway and west of O'Reilly street will be cut dead on Sunday morning. On Sunday afternoon all circuits south of Broadway and west of the West Shore railroad tracks will be cut dead. The company intends to start work at 6 o'clock Sunday morning and will establish service as quickly as possible, taking the various circuits in order of their importance. It is expected that service will be established in the section effected on Sunday morning by noon time and in the section effected during the afternoon by darkness.

This change over is an important step in the development for the establishment of proper electric service in the city.

SUES BANK HERE FOR CONVERSION

Trustee in Bankruptcy Seeks to Recover $28,296 From Rondout National Bank—President of Corporation Deposited in Own Account.

When the action brought by Jesse DeWitt against the New York Central Railroad was put over the term Thursday, an action brought by Wallace D. Eyre, trustee in bankruptcy, against the Rondout National Bank was taken up for trial by the court without a jury. This action is brought by Mr. Eyre against the bank for conversion. Plaintiff claims that funds which should have been applied to the benefit of creditors had been paid over to the account of the president of the concern. Although this took place before the appointment of the trustee in bankruptcy Mr. Eyre claims that the funds belong to the bankrupt company and should not have been applied to the account of the president of the concern.

Edward G. Murray who conducted a coal business in New York city organized the Clairfield Coal Company, Inc., and as president of the company collected moneys due from the Holland-American Steamboat Company. After endeavoring to deposit the check to his account in the Coal and Iron Bank in New York city he finally did deposit it in the Rondout bank where the amount, $28,296.00, was applied to his account, plaintiff claiming that the funds were thus misappropriated. Murray owned all of the stock in the company.

The question involved is whether the bank had the authority to apply the check which was deposited to the personal account of Mr. Murray or whether it was the property of the corporation. Plaintiff seeks to recover the amount of the check and have it applied to the benefit of creditors. John T. Loughran and Ambrose V. McCall appear for plaintiff and Howard Chipp and Walter N. Gill appear for the bank.

SUPREME COURT CASES SETTLED

Case number 136 on the Supreme Court calendar, being the action of Charles L. Thompson against Martin Jordan, has been settled. The action was brought for the loss of a cow, having been run into by the stage of Jordan.

Jordan paid for the cow, William D., and William D. Brimmer, Jr., were attorneys for Mr. Thompson, and Chris J. Flanagan was attorney for Jordan.

The case number 183 on the Supreme Court calendar, being the action of Edith Millens the N. Y. C. R. R. Company, has been settled. Miss Millens was injured getting off the train at New York city. William D. & William D. Brimmer, Jr., were attorneys of Miss Millens and Amos Van Etten was attorney for the railroad company.

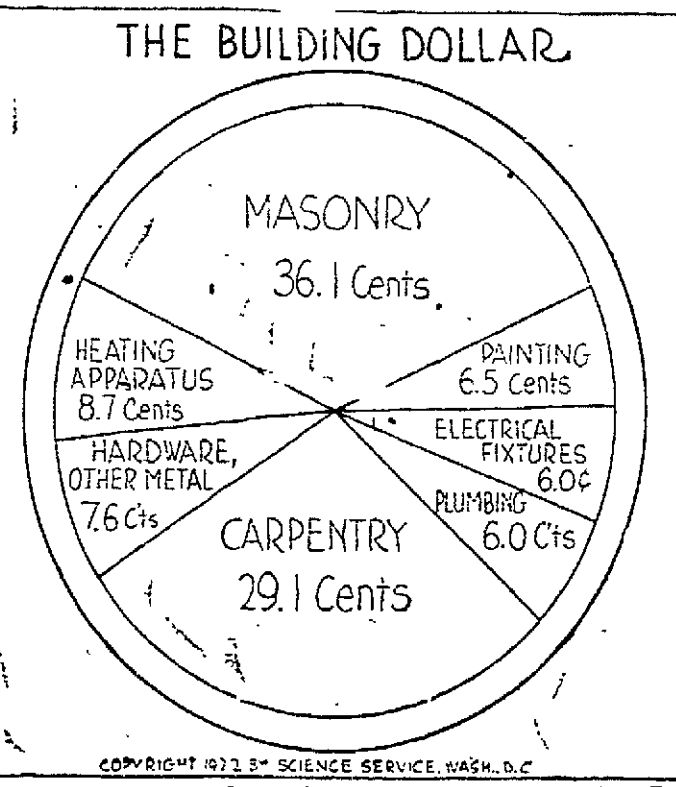

Caunitz With Uster Garage.

Walter H. Caunitz has resigned his position as salesman for the Stuyvesant Garage, not the Uster Garage, as stated in Thursday's Freeman. He is now employed as salesman by the Uster Garage.

MUD PACKS FREE ON BEACH

"Cure" That Costs Nothing Is One of the Attractions at Famous Coney Island.

Mud packs, which cost $2 apiece at beauty parlors, and which enjoy considerable fame as wrinkle eradicators and skin beautifiers among the fair sex, may be had for nothing at Coney Island, writes a New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Which explains the amazing sight offered visitors to the beach, when 800 bathers appeared in mud masks, their faces coated with black and yellow clay. The mud for the masks was obtained where contractors are working on the new Coney Island boardwalk. Sand from sand suckers is being pumped to build the new beach, pipes a foot in diameter throwing up clay, mud and water. The clay is caught as it comes from the pipes and applied to the face, where it hardens into a black mass. The bathers then lie on the sand in the sun, in order to get the full effect of the "cure."

Sure of His Job.
"Solomon has a great reputation for wisdom."
"How do you suppose he got that way?"
"Maybe he had ample leisure to cultivate his mind. Unlike modern rulers he didn't have to keep his ear to the ground all the time to find out whether he'd die with his crown on or soon be writing home for money."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Linguists in the Spirit World.
"How was the seance?"
"A great success. Mme. Hokus materialized Napoleon Bonaparte, Marie Antoinette and Julius Caesar."
"Quite a distinguished gathering."
"Yes, and I was not aware until after the seance started that all three could speak English fluently."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Do not try to grasp too much of life at one time. Live today well; life is a mosaic and each tiny piece should be cut and set with skill.—Boston Transcript.

EXPOSITION CROWD FINDS

evening spent in the exposition simply incites to a desire to revisit the big tents.

Educational Features.

A separate tent near the entertainment tent contains samples of work of pupils of the city schools. There are many exhibits of drawing and designing, samples of work of the workshop and the industrial courses at the high school, including embroidery, drawn work, etc., besides stands, book racks and other products of the boys' activity. There are also cakes, bread, biscuits and other good things to eat, all prepared and baked by the city pupils as the result of their school training.

The board of health exhibit is devoted to an exposition of the child welfare work and tuberculosis work. It gives a good idea of the important work along these lines which is being done in this city and always is a popular place for visitors to stop because they are now beginning to realize its far-reaching and beneficial effects.

The Y. M. C. A. booth furnishes an excellent picture of the comforts and benefits carried on at the Association building, and literature distributed from the booth is fully informing us to the benefits of membership.

The Kingston city library booth is stimulating to the interest of everyone who reads a book or magazine, which includes all but a very few visitors, and is quite apt to elicit any half-formed determination to aid the library by active membership year by year as well as by patronage.

The Ulster County Council of Boy Scouts furnishes an educational insight into the work of the scouts which arouses enthusiasm among older people quite as well as among the boys and undoubtedly will be productive of excellent results in the Boy Scout campaign now in progress.

The Ulster county home bureau furnishes a practical demonstration of one of its numerous activities by showing the exact amount of fresh fruit and vegetables which a person should eat during the course of one year, together with the amount which should be stored for winter use and the total amount which should be canned for the same season. Accompanying this is a diagram, furnished to every visitor, showing the food preservation budget supply per person per year. Looking at the exhibit, a person may marvel that he or she should be supposed to eat that quantity of fruit and vegetables in the course of twelve months, but experienced housekeepers realize that it is not only possible but probable that the entire quantity will be consumed by one person in that period. The value of the exhibit lies principally in showing the proportions of each vegetable and fruit needed for individual use.

At the booth of the Brown Tire Company there is a large exhibit of automobile tires. During the exposition "Brownie" is giving away with every purchase of a tire a can of Bob White Tube Saver, a scientific preparation to seal punctures and preserve pneumatic tires. The tube saver is being demonstrated at the booth during the exposition. A choice of a $3.50 Brownie rim spreader is offered as a choice with the purchase of a tire.

PORT EWEEN.

Port Eween, Oct. 20.—Miss Mildred Short and Mrs. Ernest Hutchings of Broadway were guests of Mrs. Walter Van Gausebeck in Kingston Thursday.

The Rev. George E. Wright, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Church attended the Kingston District Conference at Saugerties on Tuesday.

Hope Lodge, No. 65, Knights of Pythias, will meet this evening, at 7:30 o'clock in their Convention Hall. Miss Sarah A. Cole who has been the guests of Miss Mary C. Elsworth on Salem street, has returned to her home at Ulster Park.

Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rev. George E. Wright, D. D., minister, Sunday school, 10. Morning worship, 11. The Sunday school will observe Rally Day in the church. Special singing and program by the scholars. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Moser, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, will give the address, Epworth League, 8:30. Evening worship, 7:30. Cragen Says "Not Guilty."

Thursday night Officer Leonard arrested James Cragen on a charge of public intoxication. This morning James pleaded not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to Monday. Officer Leonard claims that when he met James on the Strand that James was staggering along the street and when accosted became abusive.

FOOTBALL GAME HERE TOMORROW

Newburgh Team Comes to Athletic Field Full of Confidence But Locals Believe They Are Due To Win.

The Kingston High School football team will engage Newburgh in the most "croocial" games of the year Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Field. So far this year the local team has not made a very good showing, having been defeated by Middletown 7-0 and Poughkeepsie 13-6 and holding Port Jervis to a tie game when they should have defeated them by at least one touchdown. However, regardless of this fact, optimism reigns in the Kingston camp and a victory by at least one touchdown over the Hilly City boys is confidently looked for. This optimism is likely to be changed to pessimism, nevertheless, unless the team shows some of the Kingston High School fighting spirit which former teams have been noted for throughout this section of the state. Newburgh sporting writers predict an easy victory for their team; whether or not they know what they are talking about remains to be seen.

So far this season the Newburgh team has defeated St. Stephen's seconds 22-0 and Port Jervis 26-6, which is certainly an imposing record. A mass meeting was held at the high school this afternoon in an effort to get an unusually large number of students out to this game. The game will be called promptly at 2:30. The tag system will again be in vogue and it is hoped that everyone will pay to see the game.

A CHARITY BALL THIS EVENING

The charity ball for the benefit of a fund to help along the work for dependent and defective children in Ulster county will be held this evening at the armory. The list of patrons to the ball continues to grow. Four names have been added to the list. They are Mrs. Charles S. Canline, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Washburn and Miss Anna Steencken of Saugerties and the Kingston Taxi Consolidated, Inc. Patrons are urged to send in their checks to Vivian Brenn, care of the National Ulster County Bank, as soon as possible as those in charge are anxious to get complete returns at as early a date as possible.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

Charles A. Schermerhorn's Will, Admitted to Probate, Leaves Estate of Over $15,000 Mostly to Relatives—$300 to Home for Aged.

In surrogate's court the last will and testament of Charles A. Schermerhorn, late of the city of Kingston, has been admitted to probate. Melvin Schermerhorn, brother of Kingston, and Alice J. MacKilip of Stamford, N. Y., a sister, are named as executors and trustees. The value of the estate is given as over $10,000 real; over $5,000 personal. By the terms of the will $150 is left in trust to Wiltwyck Rural Cemetery Association, the income to be used for the care of the burial plot; $500 for the Home for the Aged of Ulster County; the homestead property with all its contents on Pearl street, is bequeathed to Minnie Hermance, who is a relative by marriage, and to Minnie Pratt, daughter; after the death of the survivor of them it goes to the grandson, John P. Keator, Jr., should he survive. The rest and residue of the estate is left in trust of the executors to invest, and out of the income to pay to the daughter, Minnie Pratt, $150 each month, and to Minnie Hermance $75 each month. After the death of the aforementioned Minnie Pratt and Minnie Hermance, the rest and residue to go to the executors Melvin Schermerhorn and Alice MacKilip, the brother and sister. The remaining estates after the death of the daughter, Minnie Pratt, Minnie Hermance and the two executors, is devised to Ward Hill, singer of Schuylerville; Edith Davis, of Richmondville, and Anna MacKilip, nieces of Stamford, equally. James A. Betts is the attorney for the executors.

Stone Ridge Farm Sold.

The Ulster Realty Agency, 376 Fair street, has sold for Irving Carman his farm located near Stone Ridge to Louis Krause of Brooklyn. Mr. Krause expects to go into berry culture extensively and make the property his permanent home. Frank Hyatt of the same agency has sold to Theodor Hebrauer a two family house of Eleanor Washburn located at 145 O'Neil street.

What Is America's Greatest Sin.

It is quite certain that not everyone will agree with the preacher in St. James' Methodist Church on Sunday night when he will endeavor to answer the question, "What Is America's Greatest Sin?" Dr. Baragwanath will frankly discuss the question whether his hearers agree with him or not. The musical program will be attractive.

Try Out Newburgh Player.

The Newburgh News says that Naddie Levinson, a Newburgh boy, is being given a chance to "make" the Kingston state league basketball team. Naddie was in uniform on the sidelines here Wednesday and was told to report in Amsterdam Friday evening when Kingston played Amsterdam.

Supper and Bazaar.

A supper and bazaar for the benefit of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Esopus, will be held November 16th and 17th.

Americans Live Longer Now.

The life of an average American has been lengthened by five years since 1909, according to the findings of the committee on elimination of waste in industry of the American Engineering Council appointed by Herbert Hoover. Surveys of sickness, the report shows, indicate an economic gain to the nation of many millions of dollars through decreased disability and sickness, observes the New York World.

Army figures bear out estimates of industrial loss resulting from accidents to the eye and defective vision. Of 2,292 men discharged for physical reasons by the military authorities in Brooklyn and Manhattan, 462 were rejected because of defective eyes. Eye conservation, the report argues, has now become a matter of organized national concern.

It is estimated that every day nearly 2,500,000 people are ill in the United States. Tuberculosis is still the worst communicable disease, though its ravages are decreasing. Federal and state action is included in an elaborate program suggested to minimize illness and prolong lives. There is no reason, it is declared, to believe that the race is physically advancing, but that national vitality is increasing, according to the waste investigators of the council.

Advice to Parents.

A little English girl, Catherine Alexander, fourteen years old, is the author of a treatise entitled "How Parents Can Improve Themselves." "People who are most likely to know how to bring up children," she says, "are girls of about thirteen to fifteen. They are just old enough to see reason and to understand why it is good to sometimes make children do what they do not wish to, and are yet young enough to know what it is to be a child, and to know which things a child likes and understands and which things it doesn't."

Lone Ranger Exercises Memory.

Alone as a forest ranger in a remote section of the Cascade mountains, in the state of Washington, George Kilgore, a former University of Washington student, has memorized practically all of the New Testament and three books of poems. In addition to the mental exercise he has completed an entire dining room set of buffet, tea table, dining table, six chairs and a fern pedestal from hand split and hewn fir and cedar wood. The furniture polished in its natural color is worth more than his year's salary. In three winter months Kilgore trapped near his cabin more than $500 worth of pelts.

The New Gardner Sedan

When such important qualifications of closed car value as equipment, comfort, convenience, appearance and price are considered, the Gardner Sedan gives a good account of itself.

With 32 x 4 anti-skid cord tires—sturdy drum-type headlamps—tilting steering wheel—dome light—Perfection heater—it embodies every detail of equipment and refinements that could be desired in a closed car.

The interior is draught-proof and weather-proof. Ventilation is controlled by adjustable windshield, cowl ventilator and rotary-type door window lifts, while a permanent metal sun visor increases the safety and comfort of driving. With full five-passenger seating capacity—all four doors open wide, providing easy entrance to both front and rear seats.

The full weight of the car is carried on axle housing rather than on axle driving shaft, thus relieving the propelling mechanism from all save driving strains. This is an exceptionally important feature in closed car construction.

The new Gardner Sedan is a real quality job—at a price that puts the family pocketbook back in the picture.

COMMON SENSE CORRECTIVE.

Prohibition enforcement officers may search every house in America for the last bottle of liquor, if the people are willing to permit it and to pay the enormous costs. Our courts may even sentence to be hanged every man caught taking a drink of the forbidden fluid, if the people are willing to submit to such a triumphant reign of fanatical extremists. But to attempt to "dry" clean the ships of foreign nations—and in the commercial interests of our Government's liners at that—is quite another matter. In order to appreciate the attitude of the outside world toward this extraordinary proposition we have only to imagine the rage of the tobacco planters of the Carolinas, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the Connecticut Valley, and indeed the towering indignation of practically the whole people of the United States, if any nation of Europe should become the victim of anti-tobacco fanaticism, seize American "tobacco runners" on the high seas, and forbid our ships sailing for its ports to sell tobacco to their passengers.

The New York Herald says it is obvious that the prohibition amendment "never intended to infringe upon the freedom of international commerce." This is true of the letter of the amendment itself, but there were extremists behind it who intended that and more. Their ambition was and is to "dry" clean the whole world. It is nothing to them that our government is not the sole authority on this planet and that if this fact is ignored grave international complications will follow. There is no limit to their purposes or to the demands on the politicians they are ready to make. They can be checked only by the common sense and sober reflection of the American people.

"The league still lives" asserts a Democratic contemporary, with an air of having said something to the discredit of the Republican party. The Republican party has done nothing to hinder it from living and working as best it can. We have nothing but the best of wishes for its success. But we declined to become a party to a compact that bound us to make the "supreme sacrifice" of national sovereignty. The Democratic party wanted to make the United States a subject of the league, to bear its burdens. The Republican party saved the United States from the catastrophe. The league just barely lives, having no bottomless treasury upon which to draw and having no members that are disposed to make it a vital agency in world affairs. The league was designed as a means of making the United States furnish the men and money to preserve peace and reconstruct Europe. We choose to let Europe take the first steps in reconstruction and manifest some disposition to encourage peace. We have never been unwilling to help, but we always insist upon being the judges as to how and when and where we shall do the helping.

With their usual stupidity, the Democratic campaign managers are destroying themselves. Their assertion that the new tariff will cost the people of the country three billion dollars is so utterly absurd that not even a Democrat will believe it—and the Democrats of the country will have no more confidence in anything that emanates from headquarters. Everyone knows that in the past the country has always enjoyed the most prosperity under a protective tariff, or under the prohibitive conditions of war. That being true, no one except a simpleton is going to credit a story that the new tariff will cost the people three billion dollars. What's the use of fibbing if you can't tell a fib that you can get some one to believe?

In its editorial columns the New York World roars that the United States has done nothing to help restore Europe and in its news columns, under glaring headlines, it proclaims that Americans have practically given Germany a billion dollar in gold in return for worthless marks, which gold Germany can use in paying part of her reparation debts to the Allies. Now if the Allies will pass the gold on to the United States in payment of loans, the money will make the circuit and cancel some of the European debts.

In the meantime, the World need not worry so much for the welfare of Europe.

No gentleman would be caught carrying a bundle in Paris because he might be mistaken for a servant or a person of humble station. He may, however, carry a melon without loss of dignity because King Edward VII (then Prince of Wales) once was pleased to take a luscious melon and carry it with his own hands to his Paris apartment. Recently Lord Curzon violated precedent further by carrying a parcel from a Paris shop, and now doubtless even the Paris gentleman is wondering whether he also may be brave enough to take the risk of being "mistaken for a servant" when the delay of routine shop delivery is found inconvenient.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is the Canada goose a brant? I thought the brant was a different bird.
2. How old do elephants live to be?
3. Do the trees in sections where climate is mild all the year round, lose their leaves in autumn the same as elsewhere?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is there any choice in buying a Boston fern for the house? As house conditions are usually poor as to light, pure air, moisture, etc., the hardiest variety should be used for ordinary home culture. An experienced greenhouse man recommends Harris, Roosevelt, Scotti and Teddy Jr. giving the preference in the order these varieties are named.
2. At what age will foxes mate? They mate in late winter following the seasons of their own first year, which began the previous April or May. The young are hidden in the nest or den until about six weeks old, when they commence experimental sortles prior to learning to hunt for themselves. The male assists with feeding the family until the pups can find their own food.
3. Please describe the blue-winged warbler. Someone pointed out a bird as that but it did not look blue at all.

The blue-winged warbler, Vermivora pinus, is chiefly olive and yellow, its crown, forehead and underparts are bright yellow, the back of head and back olive; but the wings are a bluish or perhaps a slaty color, very different from the general tones of the plumage. The wings have white bars. A narrow black stripe runs from the base of the bill backward, appearing to cross the eye. Female similar, but duller.

VARIETY IN LUNCHES MAKES BETTER PUPILS.

Hot lunches are being served in many rural schools, but studies indicate that where for any reason a hot lunch is not possible, varying the menu of the lunch box and a careful choice of what goes into it have their effect on the work of the pupils.

The daily round of bread and butter, pie and cookies which many folks remember as their lunch at school, soon gets monotonous, to say nothing of its effect on health, and investigators find that many children don't even eat all of that. They hurriedly grab a cookie or piece of pie and run out to play because they know just what they'll find and would rather play than eat. State and federal nutrition specialists recommend a pint bottle of milk in every lunch box and suggest the following combinations to go with it to add variety and attractiveness to the daily noon meal:

Sandwiches with sliced tender meat for filling, baked apple and cookies or a few lumps of sugar. Crisp rolls, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened and seasoned or mixed with salad dressing; orange, apple, a mixture of sliced fruits or berries, and cake, lettuce or celery sandwiches, cup custard, jelly sandwiches, raisin or nut bread with butter, cheese, orange or maple sugar. Baked beans and lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, sweet chocolate.

OFFERS SHORT COURSE IN POULTRY KEEPING.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Men and women who wish to engage in practical poultry work, either for themselves or in managing plants for others may, according to an announcement made here today by the State College of Agriculture, receive practical instruction in the winter poultry courses offered by that institution. Tuition is free to residents of New York State.

A complete announcement and application for entering the winter courses may be obtained by writing to the Secretary College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

HOW

AERIAL ACTIVITIES ARE LOOKED UPON BY MOROS.

Army pilots assigned to the Third squadron, which recently served a temporary tour of duty at Jolo, Sulu archipelago, have been bringing back interesting tales of how the natives act and what they think of the aerial activities on and about Jolo. Some Moros believe the airplane an emissary from Allah. Others believe the superhuman occupants all-seeing and all-powerful, and still others that the plane is a dragon flown out of the South seas come to wreak dire vengeance on all bad Moros, according to an old Arabic legend. Capt. John I. Moore reports that while on a reconnaissance flight near Maimoon in South Jolo, he was at a loss to account for a native who was riding along the highway, holding aloft in outstretched arms a small white sheet, as if in supplication. In mentioning the fact later to Major Stephens, commandant of the local constabulary, that officer, having heard of similar incidents, stated that certain natives are authorized to carry harangs or knives by written permission.

Those who are apprehended with knives, but without permits, are severely punished. The native in question, who was carrying a harang, was holding his permit aloft for Captain Moore to read from airplane, in fear that one of the fearsome bombs he had heard so much of might be dropped on him otherwise, or that the plane might swoop down upon him and confiscate his weapon.

LAW SAVES BRAZIL ORIOLES

How Bird Became a Deserter From the Temperate Zone—Season for Importing Songsters.

During the hot months importation of canaries ceases. Not only do they not stand the journey well, but they are sorry looking creatures with their feathers half gone. They are not fit for market till the new plumage is out. So they are left in the small towns of Europe, where most of them are raised.

Tropical birds are imported in summer, parrots and macaws and cockatoos, together with smaller wild birds which are finding favor with people who have large aviaries and with groups of foreign-born citizens who are accustomed to having them as pets. Several kinds of thrush and the blue bulbul come from India. Some varieties of wild songsters come from Europe.

The journey to market is made always in a large cage, about ten times the size of a canary-cage. Wild birds of the smaller species come in from South America, too, and one that the native animal men consider a fine pet is the Brazil oriole.

But the Brazil oriole may not enter the United States in captivity. It has an interesting history, which accounts for its exclusion. Naturalists say orioles were not natives of Brazil originally, but by some odd chance they went south farther than usual some season long ago and found the climate and the country so much to their liking that they never came home again. So they are really deserters from the temperate zone, expatriates, who voluntarily stay in the tropics.

They have not lost rank as a native wild bird of the United States. No native wild bird may become an article of commerce, kept captive and ordered for sale in the United States.

How Radium Affects Seeds.

There have been reported the results of experiments with the action of radium on growing seeds. It has been found that the rays act as a stimulus, varying in intensity with their strength as well as with the thickness of the seed coats and the amount of intervening moist soil.

If the stimulus is not pushed beyond a certain limit, germination and subsequent growth are accelerated. Above that limit the results are unfavorable.

The growth of plants is retarded and may be stopped, by placing them in an atmosphere containing the emanation of radium, such as may be drawn from a cylinder lined with Lieber's coating.

How Sand Dunes Travel.

In the desert of La Jora, Peru, there are thousands of crescent-shaped sand dunes formed by the winds and slowly advancing across the level surface. One investigator measured one of these dunes, the points of whose crest were 190 feet apart, while the length around the convex side was 477 feet. The width at the widest part of the crescent was more than 100 feet. The weight of the sand composing the dune was estimated at 8,000 tons, yet it moved 125 feet in a year. All the dunes have the same form, and have the convex side toward the prevailing south winds.

Why Bridesmaids Get Presents.

The custom of giving presents to bridesmaids originated in a form of toll. The bride's girl friends went through the form of preventing the bridegroom and his friends from taking her from her home, a mock battle ensued, each party pelting the other with sweetmeats, and this was finally settled by the bridegroom making presents to all the girls.

HOLD COUNTRY LIFE CONFERENCE NOV. 9-12.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Oct. 20.—Arrangements are being completed at Teachers College, Columbia University, for the fifth annual meeting of the American Country Life Association which will be held at that institution from November 9 to 12. The general theme of the meeting will be the education of the rural community. Last year's conference considered the problems in general of the rural community.

According to an announcement of the secretary, E. C. Lindeman of this city, the rural school will receive much attention on the program, but it will not crowd out consideration of the problem of adult education in the country.

KLINE'S STORE WAS BURGLARIZED

Lower Broadway Store Entered by Means of Transom Over Front Door and Clothing Valued at Over $200 Stolen—Burglary Discovered This Morning.

Some time during Thursday night burglars broke into the clothing store of Max Kline at No. 20 Broadway and helped themselves to suits, and other men's merchandise to the value of over $200 and made their escape.

The burglary was discovered by Mr. Kline when he opened the store for business this morning. He immediately notified the police department and an investigation is being made by Chief of Police J. Allan Wood.

Indications are that entrance was obtained by using a step ladder, opening the transom above the front entrance to the store and climbing through. There is no other way of entering the store except through the front door, as there is no rear entrance.

NATURE'S HER SECRET

Chemists Have Never Been Able to Satisfactorily Determine the Composition of Wood.

Wood, with which the ancient Britons used to stain themselves, is grown in that part of Lincolnshire, England, which abounds with dykes and windmills, and along the borders of Cambridgeshire. If allowed to go to seed the wood often grows to three and four feet in height and has a pretty yellow flower.

The first crop of tender green shoots is picked in July or August, and during the harvest men and women are to be seen creeping along the fields on their hands and knees all day long.

The shoots are put into large wicker baskets and sent to a factory, of which there are three or four in that part of the county. When they arrive they are squashed into pulp and allowed to ferment later they are made into balls and dried.

These balls remain drying for several weeks and are then broken into pieces and stirred for a lengthy period. Eventually they produce a coarse, powderlike substance, deep blue in color. Lastly the powder is damped, stored in casks and sold to dyers and manufacturers of woollens and other articles of apparel.

The glowing blue of the policeman's uniform is obtained from wood, though it is an expensive dye in the outset, it is the cheapest in the long run.

Chemists have tried hard to fathom this secret of nature, but without success; and it is doubtful if the industry would continue to exist but for the official desire to procure uniforms that are durable and of fast color.

HAS RULED FROM BEGINNING

That Japanese Royal Family Has No Name Is Proof of Assertion Long Put Forward.

In the peaceful and isolated community it is probable that at first no family had any special line of occupation to follow. It was when the community had made some progress that division of labor was introduced. It is clear from many myths that family names in Japan were taken from the occupations followed. When many families came to follow the same occupation then the necessity arose for giving distinctive names to the different families. Of the ruling family, however, there was only one, and as it had no occupation as other families did it had no name. Nor was there any occasion for giving it a distinctive name; it sufficed to call it by an honorific name. It was not until a member of the imperial family set up a branch family that a distinctive name is given.

Japan furnishes the solitary instance where the ruling family has no family name. In England, Italy, Holland and other countries those who already had family names acquired influence and ascended to the throne. That the Japanese ruling family has no name is a clear proof of the contention that Japan has been ruled by the same family from the beginning. Had there been any revolution at any time in the history of Japan—that is to say, had the first ruling family been supplanted by another—the present imperial house would have a name of its own.—Chicago Journal.

Sea Lions Invade a Lighthouse. The keeper of Bride's Island light, below Cape Flattery, has appealed to the federal authorities in Tacoma for weapons and help. No sooner does he open his door than sea lions force their way into the house and make free with his possessions. At night they surround the place, barking for admittance, until sleep is impossible. One big fellow amuses himself by climbing the exterior steps to the light, to plunge headlong into the sea. To kill one would only attract more, for the smell of putrefying meat is an irresistible attraction.—Scientific American.

Invents "Ideal" Explosive. A Minnesota inventor has compounded an explosive which has demonstrated remarkable qualities in recent experiments. While appearing to have great disruptive powers if closely confined, as in a shell or drill hole, it can be exploded only by means of a blasting cap or electric detonator. It is reported to give off no noxious fumes, that it will not explode when heated to 212 degrees Fahrenheit, that it will not freeze, and that it cannot be accidentally exploded by shock.

IN LONE EASTER ISLANDMost Inaccessible Place in the World Has No Land Birds or Native Animals.

Prof. Macmillan Brown, the noted Polynesian authority, has returned to London from Easter Island, which he describes as the most inaccessible place in the world, though it is visited annually by a Chilean schooner, according to the Sydney correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. It contains no land birds or native animals, but once small gray rats were used as currency and ultimately served up as titbits for the "aristocracy." Professor Brown examined the famous stone figures in human form, some 70 feet in height, crowned with huge stone hats. Below the platforms upon which the images stand there are chambers wherein are placed the bleached bones of the dead. The professor says there is unmistakable evidence of a sudden abandonment of the work, and believes that the tens of thousands of workmen who erected the monuments were the people of a bygone Pacific empire inhabiting the ring of archipelagoes of which Easter Island is the center.

The theory is that food was supplied to the workers by canoes sent from neighboring islands by the masters, who came to bury the great men of the race. A cataclysm submerged the islands, cutting off the supplies, and the workmen then abandoned their duties and, pressed by hunger, became cannibals, almost exterminating the population of the islands.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL

An allegorical concept of the Red Cross as a peace-time ideal is employed by the American Red Cross in a new and striking poster for its Annual Red Cross Roll Call. Spread out before the heroic size figure is the outline of the United States with a Red Cross superimposed upon it while around its borders are sketched scenes depicting the chief activities of the Red Cross today—service to disabled veterans of the World War, disaster relief and promotion of the public health. The poster is the work of Lawrence Wilbur, a New York artist and will be displayed throughout the country during the enrollment of the Red Cross membership for 1923.

Imagination.

This power . . . reveals itself in the balance or reconciliation of opposite or discordant qualities; of sameness, with difference; of the general, with the concrete; the idea with the image; the individual with the representative; the sense of novelty and freshness with old and familiar objects; a more than usual state of emotion with more than usual order; judgment ever awake and steady self-possession with enthusiasm and feeling profound or vehement.—Coleridge.

Stinging Power of Bees.

Only queen bees and workers have the power to sting. The drones can not sting. The stinger is curved, and is carried sheathed. It can be driven into the flesh for a distance of one-twelfth of an inch. After the point enters there is a flow of poison. It is believed that a bee cannot sting a second time because, owing to backward pointing barbs, the stinger is left in the wound. Thus, the bee dies as a result of its vengeance.

ESCAPES SOVIET GUN SQUAD

Myer Levine Is Reunited With Survivors of Family in U. S.

Saved from a soviet firing squad, after having been robbed of his fortune of $150,000, Myer Levine of Russia has been reunited with the survivors of his family in the home of his son, Samuel Levine, in Allentown, Pa. He says the Russians were about to murder him, after having killed the rest of his kin in Russia, when an officer said, "Don't shoot an old man like that."

At sixty-one, he roamed thousands of miles, begging food from people afflicted with famine, until an American relief officer heard he had a son in Allentown. The rest was comparatively easy under the system established in Russia by Herbert Hoover. The Allentown son soon was reached by cable and he advanced the money to bring his father here.

War and Bibles Interest China.

Wars and politics around Peking do not interfere with the sale of the Scriptures. The American Bible society has announced that it recently shipped from its headquarters in Shanghai 187,000 Bibles to the sub-agency in Peking. This was the largest single shipment ever sent out in the history of the society's work in China. A year ago a record-breaking consignment of 588 packages was sent by mail, through the efficient Chinese post office, to Szechuen. Although part of this order fell into the hands of robbers along the Yangtze river, the books were ultimately all delivered.

Wilbur LeGette

Wilbur LeGette, a traveling salesman, declared in Los Angeles he is the man referred to by Asa G. Candler, Atlanta (Ga.) Coca Cola king, as having been the man Mrs. Onezine de Boucheille, of New Orleans, Candler's jilted fiancée, asked to enter her room in an Atlanta hotel. LeGette asserts the charge is untrue and that he will defend Mrs. de Boucheille's reputation.

Mythology and History.

The mythical stories of Egyptian gods are histories. Take the tale of Osiris, Isis and Horus. The god Osiris was once a great and good king in Egypt. He was set upon and killed by his brother, Set, who was aided by 72 companions. Isis, the wife of Osiris, found her husband's coffin in Syria and brought it back to Egypt. Set then reappeared, tore up the body of Osiris, and scattered it. Isis, ever faithful, sought out all the fragments and erected a temple over each of them. Then, uniting forces with Horus, the two fell upon Set and drove him into the Red Sea. Flinders Petrie, the archeologist, asserts that there is proof that this myth embodies history from periods long before the invention of writing. The struggle of gods in myths, he says, invariably means the wars of their respective worshippers.

Relic of the Civil War.

An eight-inch, 200-pounder Parrott rifled gun, mounted by the federal troops in a morass on Morris Island, Charleston harbor, in 1863, was called the "Swamp Angel." August 22 and 23 the city of Charleston, five and one-half miles distant, was shelled, the gun bursting at the thirty-sixth shot. After the war the "Swamp Angel" was sold as old metal and conveyed to Trenton, N. J., but having been identified, it was set up on a granite pedestal at Perry and Clinton streets of that city.

Pug Dog Not Wanted.

A correspondent wonders where all the pug dogs have gone. A few years back they were found in many households, but now not a one is to be seen in a month's journey. Most folk, however, have ceased worrying about where the pug has gone and only hope he will never come back. He was a selfish and conceited pup at best, and the Lord knows he was a homely brute. It did seem mighty ridiculous to waste love on a pug when one could get a St. Bernard for the same money.—Los Angeles Times.

GOOD MUSIC AT THE EXPOSITION

Orchestra and Miss Los Kamp Please Their Old Friends and New Brought Wins Instant Favor.

Another notable and highly enjoyed feature of the opening program at the Exposition Thursday was that provided by the musicians participating. The opening orchestral numbers were spirited, splendidly played and thoroughly musical and were fully appreciated. It just went to show again that Kingston certainly is on the map orchestral. Then Miss Virginia Los Kamp, contralto soloist at the Rondout Presbyterian Church, who is such a favorite with Kingston audiences, sang two groups of charming songs; first "Life," and then "The Great Awakening," both admirably suited to the more serious character of Miss Los Kamp's rich voice. She sang as her second group, "Oh, Mr. Piper," a charming number; and, as she said in announcing it, an especially appropriate selection, "Farewell to Summer," which called forth great applause.

If C. Baldwin Allen, baritone, was a stranger to Kingstonians before, he never can be again after Thursday night's singing, he is now their friend. His voice is rich, vibrant, full of music; he gets at the "true inwardness of things," and he knows how to sing, technically; withal he is a modest, pleasing young man. So delightfully did he sing, "On the Road to Mandalay," that the big audience broke out into applause at the end of each verse. This was followed by "The Hills of Donegal," a tender, heartfelt song. His second group of songs included the gay and spirited "Captain Mack," and the lovely home song, "My Ain Folk," sung so exquisitely that there was a breathless silence in the part of the continually increasing audience left one note, one inflection, one word be lost. Had it not been so cold the two soloists who so kindly sang would have been obliged to sing encore numbers, but even the music lovers "had a heart," in that respect.

MARVELOUS ECHO SAVED ROODBOY

Captain of Famous Gallupers Possessed a Strong Pair of Lungs, and His Call For Help Reacted in a Manner That Astounded Even He—A Galluper Tale.

"This is sure the life," remarked Captain Roodboy, as he stretched out his hands toward the blazing camp fire at his hunting shack in the mountains. Gathered around the fire with him were the Biven boys, Blink and Zink, and Raiser Turk, members of his famous ball team that had won the Mountain League championship.

The first snow had fallen in the mountains and the air was brisk and chill. "It certainly is ideal weather for hunting," agreed Blink and the others chimed in with a "you said it boy."

"I think tomorrow I'll give Merilee, the rabbit hound, a chance to show his stuff on the other side of the mountain," mused Roodboy.

"That dog is some runner," interrupted Zink Biven recollecting the first day's incident with the jack rabbit in which Merilee had been somewhat injured in a peculiar manner as related at the time. "Well," said Roodboy, "as we have to get up early I guess it's time to turn in for the night," and he turned into his bunk. The others followed shortly afterward.

The next morning Roodboy and Merilee set forth to see what game could be secured. Roodboy had never tramped the hills on the other side of the mountain from the hunting shack, but he was a good woodsman and had no fear of not being able to make his way back to the shack later in the day.

The day's sport proved good, for Merilee had rounded up a number of rabbits which Roodboy had shot, and the captain of the Gallupers noting that the sun was beginning to sink behind the mountains started to retrace his steps campward.

As Roodboy pursued the way backward he found that he had entered what appeared to be a deep cut through the mountains which rose abruptly on either side of him. Suddenly he found himself confronted with a huge bear who was in an ugly humor. The reason was not far off—a couple of little cubs who were frisking gaily about.

Roodboy realized that his gun would prove useless against the bear as he only carried ammunition for small game, but he determined to sell his life dearly. As the bear approached closer Roodboy on the off chance of some of his companions being within hearing suddenly yelled "Help!" at the top of his voice.

As he did so he suddenly realized that the valley possessed marvelous acoustic properties for his call for help rebounded from one side of the valley to the other in ever increasing volume and just as the bear prepared to strike him down occurred the event that startled even Roodboy for the echo of his voice rebounded with such violence that both Roodboy and the bear were knocked head over heels for a distance of fully forty-three and a half feet.

As Roodboy scrambled to his feet he cast a hurried glance at the bear who appeared to have been stunned and then lost no time in departing from there.

That evening the other Gallupers were hard put to it to believe how he effected his escape until he volunteered to show them the valley and let them hear the echo.

Showman Buried Alive.

One of the performers at a popular show, who played the part of a "human mole," was buried alive some time ago, reports the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Express. His performance consisted in entering a dugout one yard in depth, remaining buried there for 15 minutes and then emerging as a "mole." After the performance had been repeated several times feeble cries for help were heard by one of the spectators, but were unheeded. As the performer failed to appear at the fixed time considerable alarm spread among the spectators, and the man finally was brought out dead—London Item in the New York Tribune.

Orgy of Blunders.

Of the making of mixed metaphors there is no end. An oriental editor recently received a letter containing the following gems: The writer said that the country wants a peace "where the lion of autocracy will walk hand in hand with the floodgates of autocracy." That "if the co-operators had hearts in their stomachs they would put their shoulders to the wheel," and that "what we want to know in India is to know where the shoe plagues and that can only be done by never wearing your shoes till you have walked in them a day or two. It is by such cautious measures that we can avoid failure."—Boston Transcript.

Indian Names.

Many of our rivers, lakes and mountains have Indian names of which the original meaning has been lost, largely because of changes in spelling which have made their tracing back to the Indian derivatives difficult. Indian names are Winnipeg, meaning "at the beautiful lake," and Mississippi, meaning "Father of Waters," but "great river." Missouri is the "great muddy." Michigan "the great sea," and Mackinac is "great turtle," a name given because of the resemblance of the island to a turtle. It is to be noticed that the prefix "mich" in its various forms means great.

What is "Chic"?

It is an air, a captivating grace! The costliest gown may lack it—the most inexpensive may have it! It lies not so much in the seen, as in the unseen—the hand-felled seam, the bit of stitchery, the outline of a neck, the set of a sleeve!

Our suits, for example! They are unpretentious, simple and inexpensive. Yet they are "chic"! No matter where you go, no matter how well-dressed the circle you move in, attired in one of our new autumn suits you will win a glance of quick approval!

Good Meats Only At LAY'S SATURDAY SALE

Every new convert to the merits of this market usually comes to us out of curiosity and often with distrust born of past disappointments elsewhere, but invariably he or she remains to buy. The answer is simple. It consists in the fact that our Meats, Bolognas and Frankfurters, and in fact all the food articles we sell, have more than fair words to commend them. No home or restaurant caterer who is sufficiently interested to come and see, can doubt this statement. In selecting our meats we use the most painstaking care to see that they carry a real value which fully justifies us in our claims. No market in Kingston which keeps GOOD MEATS can undersell us, nor will you obtain better service anywhere in this city.

MAN KILLED IN 600-FOOT FALL

Anthony Boucher of New Bedford, Mass., 23 years old, was instantly killed at Westkill Thursday evening when he fell down an elevator shaft, a distance of 649 feet. He was employed by the Glen Construction Company. That night he walked to the elevator shaft which connects with the tunnel being built under the mountains for the New York water works. Finding that the cage was not there he called to a man to send the cage down as he wanted to descend to the tunnel, while the cage was being lowered Boucher opened the gates that protect the entrance to the shaft and in some unknown manner lost his footing and plunged to the bottom of the shaft. He was instantly killed. His body was not badly mangled considering the distance he fell. The body was taken in a cage by the taker Leo V. Grogan of this city. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

WESTERN UNION OFFICIAL KIWANIS CLUB SPEAKER

J. C. Hale, a member of the staff of General Manager Carroll of the Western Union Telegraph Company in New York, spoke to the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon Thursday on "Time and How to Get More of It." His introduction was almost classic in its eloquence of the importance of time in human life. The "How to Get More of It" part was an argument for the use of the Western Union Telegraph wires rather than the mails in business or other intercourse where time is an element.

Sam Stern and John Mack jointly contributed the attendance prize and Sam won it. This is the first time he has won a prize since the club's formation, although he is the only member with a 100 per cent attendance record.

Serious business crowded out most of the usual hilarity, the only bright spots being to the right and left of Doc Gillett where sat his two pretty guests—nurses.

An invitation was received to attend the chapter meeting of the Walton Club next Monday evening.

ARTISTS COME FROM ATAR TO SEE

Ten workers of pen, pencil and brush in the artists colony at Woodstock came all the way down from the Catskills Wednesday night to make a house in front of the Little Theater. That was because Madge Kennedy, starring there in "Spice Corner," attended the Art Students League before coming on the stage and hasn't yet outlived it. Therefore her former classmates, before going inside to get warmed up, stood out and froze while they gave three cheers for art.—New York Evening Sun

LUTHER FOUNDER OF BIBLE SOCIETY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 20.—That Martin Luther was the original founder of the American, British and German Bible Society, was indicated by Prof. P. G. Alleman, of Gettysburg Theological Seminary, in an address this afternoon before the United Lutheran convention in recognition of the four hundredth anniversary of Luther's translation of the New Testament into the language of his people.

Dr. Ezra K. Bell of Baltimore, president of the board of foreign missions of the United Lutheran Church, submitted the report of that board.

Dr. Luther B. Wolf, treasurer of the foreign board, of Baltimore, stated that the board had received $1,278,000 during the last two years.

One thousand delegates stood with bowed heads while Dr. John Wagner of Hazelton, Pa., led the body in petition for all foreign missionaries of the United Church in foreign fields; Dr. Edwin Heyl Deik of Philadelphia was asked to direct the delegates in supplication for native Christian pastors. Dr. J. A. Sigmund of Gettysburg Theological Seminary, led in petitions for a Christian denominations operating in our foreign fields.

Accent on Scream.

All agreed that she was an exceedingly pretty girl. Her dresses were in the latest mode. Men were irresistibly attracted to her. The only drawback was her deafness, a serious handicap. One admirer after another called, perhaps attended her to some social affair, but in the end they all fell away. The news that she was engaged to be married naturally impressed her friends. Two old admirers were discussing the news.

"It must have been funny proposing to a deaf girl like her," said one.

"Funny? I'll say so," said the other. "It must have been a scream."—New York Times.

Wrong Impression.

"No, I never hunt for ideas," the eminent author assured her. "When I feel in the mood for work, I climb to the summit of a hill, and there, with the scent of the mountain pine in my nostrils, I find my inspiration."

"Just funny!" gushed the girl. "And then you descend and write it all down, I suppose?"

"Indeed I don't. That would be a sure way of losing it. I carry my little typewriter up with me."

"Oh, how good of you! But does she—er—does she never turn giddy or anything?"

Early Crusaders Used Stills.

Few prohibitionists, says the Scientific American, are aware of the shocking fact that the vogue of the still in Europe was due to the original crusaders, who took kindly to this eastern recreation and brought back with them recipes and methods that made the still as popular an institution as the royal jester—and doubtless helped along democracy by making it hard at times to distinguish the king from the clown.

Sequence and Consequence.

As showing how the combination of drink and driver works out, we give the terse report of Ben Quinn, an Indian of Kansas. He said: "First mile too slow took drink of booze; next mile faster, took another drink; last mile very fast, took another drink; then saw bridge in road, turned out for it."

Ben is now in the hospital with a broken arm.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Giving Him a Lesson.

Little Georgie Tubb got a puppy for his birthday present last week.

The puppy was just at that age when everything looks good to chew.

Sometimes he bit harder than he should.

One morning, several days after the celebration of Georgie's birthday, the little dog came howling from the nursery.

"Tohy bit my finger, and, as he can't learn to stop biting, I bit his ear."—Houston Post.

Real Oldtimer.

One very seldom sees nowadays an old-fashioned elevator known as the "clothesline lift," meaning that the elevator is caused to ascend and descend by means of pulling a wire cable. There is one such relic of former days, however, that is still used by the United States government. It is on the elevator at the Lemon building in Washington.

More Business in Government Does Make A Difference

The Republican party came into power March, 1921, and immediately set about to put more business in Government.

The Congress speedily enacted the law creating the Budget Bureau and clothed it with power to systematize and supervise public expenditures. Executive departments and agencies worked together to put into effect business methods and practices. Expenses were reduced, lost motion cut out, useless employees dropped, and the whole governmental machinery overhauled and speeded up.

Executives and the Congress, both Republican, worked together in support of policies which were helpful, National and constructive. They emphasized public and national welfare as opposed to destructive policies which appeal only to class or sectional interests.

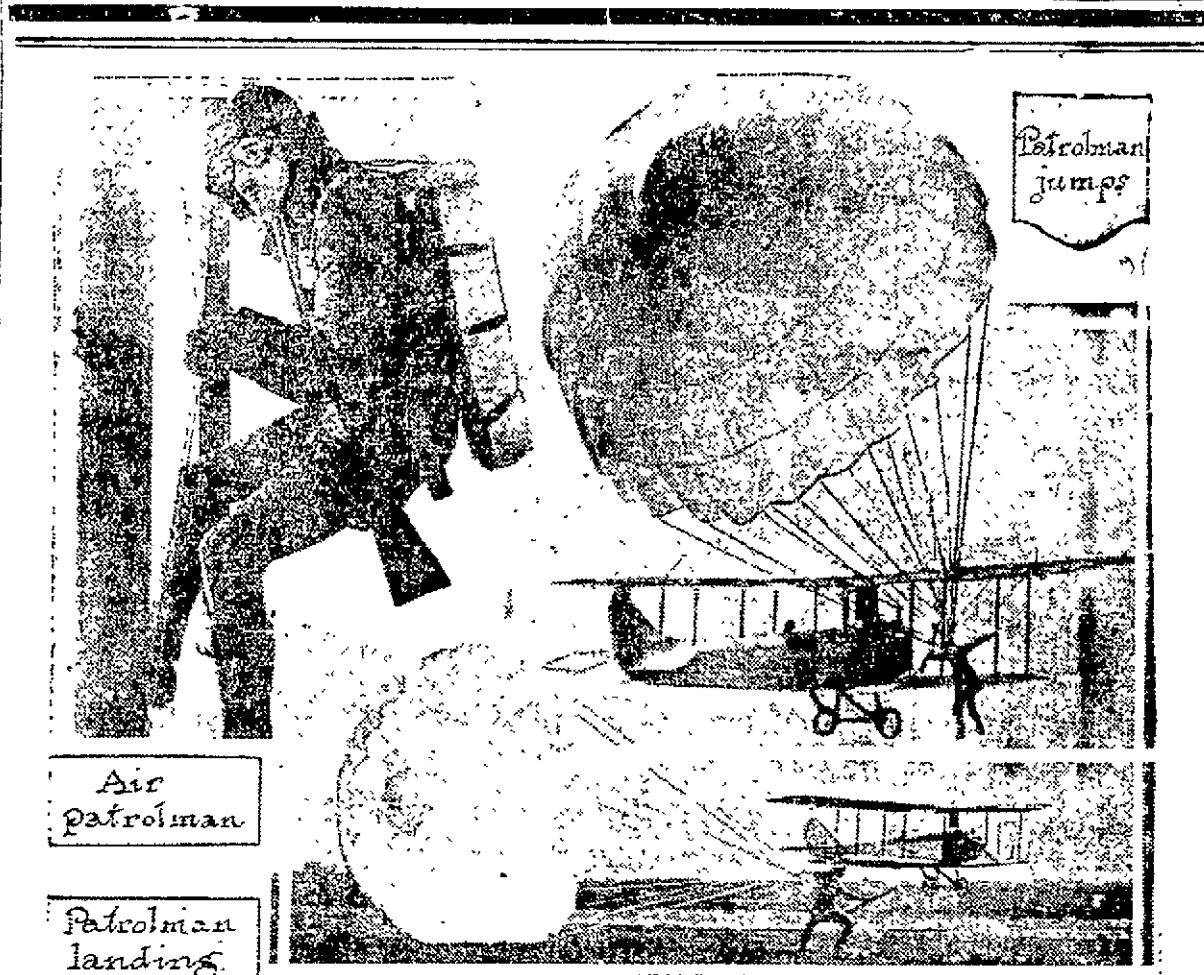

The sum total of these policies, business methods and economics has been a return toward normal business conditions. Business has been reassured. Markets have been stabilized. Liberty bonds have advanced 15 per cent. and are selling at par and above. Interest rates in the Federal Reserve system have been lowered from 7 1/2 to 4 1/2 per cent. Credit for all legitimate needs is obtainable. Agriculture has been revived. The problem of unemployment no longer exists except in industries affected by strikes.

It Really Makes A Difference at the End of the Year Which Party Has Been in Power

The continuance of control of both branches of the Government by the Republican party is necessary that there may be co-operation between these branches for the furtherance of the constructive business program that has been begun and upon the completion of which the welfare and prosperity of the American people depend.

SUICIDE WAS BANK PRESIDENT

Winfield Clearwater, Head Of Rutherford Institution, Came To Old Home Locality To Die By Own Hand When Charged With Embezzlement—Left Explanatory Letter For Wife.

Winfield Clearwater, thirty-six years old, a native of New Paltz and president of a bank in Rutherford, N. J., found himself facing arrest on a charge of embezzling $7,000 of the bank funds and on Tuesday morning shot and killed himself along the banks of a branch of the Wallkill creek near Perrine's bridge, about one hundred feet from the highway where he had abandoned his automobile.

The finding of the body, which was stated in The Freeman Thursday evening, was followed by discovery of letters in the pocket of the dead man's overcoat, under a tree near the place where the body was found.

On a small envelope in the pocket of the overcoat was written:
"I am Winfield Clearwater son of Nelson D. Clearwater. Notify him also my wife, Arlie B. Clearwater, 31 Ivy Place, Rutherford, N. J. Tel. 638-R."

On the reverse side of the same envelope, across the flap, had been written:
"My car is in the garage across the street."

Three envelopes were together in one of the overcoat pockets. On one was written:
"Notify Elting Harp, New Paltz, N. Y. At once. Give him this letter."

On another envelope was written:
"Mr. Elting Harp, New Paltz, N. Y."

This envelope contained a letter to Mr. Harp.

The third envelope was addressed, "Give to addressee unopened."

Mrs. Arlie B. Clearwater, 31 Ivy Place, Rutherford, N. J."

Finding The Body.

The body was found about nine o'clock Thursday morning by Lloyd C. Keator and Henry P. Myers, who live near Elting. They were hunting and while walking along the banks of the creek about one hundred feet from where the abandoned automobile had been found on Tuesday, near Perrine's bridge, they noticed a gray Scotch mist overcoat and brown fedora hat under a tree close by the water's edge.

A few feet away they saw the boots of a man's shoes projecting above the water, and when the body was removed on the arrival of Sheriff Kolts, Coroner W. Norman Conner and Dr. John T. Buckley, it was evident that Clearwater had waded out in the water a few feet, and had leaned forward before sending a bullet in his brain in order that his body would be sure to fall in the water. The body was in a fine state of preservation.

The officials removed the body and it was brought to the undertaking establishment of Coroner Conner. District Attorney Traver directed that an autopsy be performed but countermanded the order early in the evening after a talk with Clearwater's brother and father-in-law, who identified his handwriting of the letters found in the overcoat pocket in which Clearwater spoke of his preparations to kill himself. The family were satisfied that he had committed suicide.

Clearwater's Movements.

From what has been learned by the officials, Clearwater was threatened with arrest last Saturday, but induced officers to postpone it until Monday. On Monday he drove his automobile to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Clearwater, at Lake Mohogan, Dutchess county, where he spent part of Monday afternoon and of which visit he speaks in his farewell letter to his wife.

The fatal shot was fired from a Police Special Automatic revolver which belonged to Clearwater's brother, who is an under sheriff of Bergen county, N. J. The brother lived with Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Clearwater. Winfield Clearwater, the dead man, had a revolver of his own, which had been provided some time ago by the bank to its employees when hold-ups became numerous in the vicinity of New York, but he could secure his brother's automatic much easier than he could procure his own revolver from the bank. The bullet entered his right temple, just above the ear, and passed entirely through the brain, coming out on the left side of the head, some distance above the ear, having taken a diagonal course through the head.

Clearwater was of athletic build, tall and broad-shouldered and weighed about 180 pounds. He was in perfect physical condition and from the condition of his muscles evidently kept himself in the best of condition by training. He was very muscular and there was not an ounce of superfluous flesh on him. His forehead was high and rounded, and his reddish tinged hair did not begin until near the top of his head, giving him a somewhat bald appearance.

Having determined to die in his native town of New Paltz, he first made a farewell visit to his parents in Dutchess county; then drove to New Paltz, where he wrote a letter to his wife and one to Elting Harp, and spent the night at one of the New Paltz hotels. On Tuesday morning he left the hotel, drove to the vicinity of Perrine's bridge, left his car alongside the highway, and walking not more than one hundred feet to the creek, carefully removed his hat and coat, placed them under a tree, and then wading a short distance in the water, leaped forward and deliberately ended his life.

His brother and father-in-law, who arrived in Kingston early Thursday evening, were not aware of his having "borrowed" the $7,000 from the bank without the bank's knowledge, and had they known of it and the trouble that confronted Clearwater, they could easily have raised the money to make good his shortage.

Farewell To His Wife.

The letter to his wife, was written by Clearwater with a pencil on two sheets of note paper of the kind used mostly by women in their correspondence. The writing evidently was done hurriedly, because many of the words almost run together and there were but few pauses for punctuation. The letter is in one paragraph.

In many ways Clearwater's letter to his wife is a remarkable document. It reads as follows:

Monday.
My dear, dear wife, Arlie:
I am spending the day riding and writing have been through my favorite ride near Mt. so on over to see my dear mother for the last time and good old dad, Arlie, you will never know how much I love you and still love. The act which I am about to commit you and all will forgive me for. I know it is unmanly but it is the only way out. I have been double crossed by the bank examiner and the directors of the bank. I borrowed some money when I was trying to put across my last company and same would have been a success had I had a little longer and the bank would have been paid back. My bond will cover that so don't worry about it and remember whatever other money I owe don't you pay it as a wife is not responsible for her husband's debts in the state of New Jersey. I left my diamond ring at mother's on the shelf by the clock. I hope you will always wear it and please do not take me back to Jersey. I want to be laid to rest here near New Paltz, the place where I was born. And do not go in mourning for me but be brave. Everything will be ironed out with time. My insurance policies are in the safe deposit box if not Mr. Huban will give them to you out of the end of the collection note he at the bank. safe deposit box number is 57, key on my chain. I have been mixed up with a lot of cut-throats and I should have come out all right had the examiner given me the time he said he would but he had warrant out for me Saturday and that was the two men who were at the house even they are crooked because I told them I would give them money if they would let me off until Monday afternoon they did as you see. The old world is all right but a whole lot of people are all wrong as you can see. Be a good girl and pray to your God and I will see you in Heaven. God has forgiven me for the act. I have always been honest and had a great many admirers around Jersey but this last could not be helped. Several people told me they would let me have money so I issued the checks and when they did not come across I borrowed it from the bank knowing I could pay it back when the Co. went through. Tell George to go on with the company. He has my best wishes. Also friend Carleton. My love to your mother, dad and Bergh. They have all been very good to me and I appreciate it very much. More than they will ever know. Well, good-bye, dear old pal, and always have kind thoughts for me. Much love.

Your affectionate hubby,

Will Observe Last Wish.

The funeral will take place from Coroner Conner's undertaking establishment on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, and in accordance with Clearwater's last wish as contained in the letter to his wife, the burial will be at New Paltz.

Clearwater's brother and his father-in-law, Peter Bradley of No. 116 West Thirty-ninth Street New York city, who arrived in town early Thursday evening, went today to New Paltz with Coroner Conner to arrange for the interment in the New Paltz cemetery as desired by the dead man.

NATURELAND NEWS

"I'm going to read aloud the latest copy of 'Natureland News,'" said Witty Witch.

And all the Fairies and Gnomes, Brownies and Elves, Owl Family and Bogey Family and old Mr. Giant sat about Witty Witch's cave and listened. This is what she read.

"As the cool weather is beginning to be felt, Mr. and Mrs. Meadowlark have decided to join the other Meadowlarks and they will all travel about together.

"During the summer Mr. and Mrs. Meadowlark have been by themselves in their own nest and have had no visitors in their part of the meadow. They have gone grasshopper hunting by themselves too and have been most successful.

"They have had insect birthday parties for each other. These parties have been given very often for they have said they thought they might as well have birthdays all the time and that they were doing a good work eating the insects.

"Then," Witty Witch continued, "I see that they have discovered something that is going to make chestnut trees stronger—growing them in a certain fashion. Chestnut trees have had a hard time of it lately, but by blights and they can't all the help they can get.

Yes, for everyone loves chestnuts and the Grey Squirrel Family say that half or a quarter or a sixteenth at least of their interest in life is gone when there are no chestnuts in the fall.

"This year Jack Frost expects to give his party for the Squirrels tomorrow evening. He has partly opened the great barrels which are so very prickly—but not too prickly for chestnut lovers."

"And he has ripened the nuts so they will be good to eat.

"Ah, yes, Jack Frost is sending out word that while the Squirrels are to be invited for the party tomorrow evening he will invite the children the following day. He will not be on hand, he says, but the nuts will, and that is most important of all.

"He thinks a good way for boys and girls to open chestnuts is by cracking them open with a stone, using another stone to put them on when doing this so as not to get the burrs in their fingers.

"Then I also see that it is said that the oldest chestnut tree in another part of the world is known to be over a thousand years old.

"And here is quite an interesting account in the 'Natureland News,'" Witty Witch went on, "about the red of trees and plants during the spring of the year and how the red canthars more heat from the sun than any other color and that that is the way these plants and trees store up plenty of heat and strength.

"I'm Going to Read Aloud."

"Oh dear me," said Witty Witch, "I see here a list of the important birds flying down South soon for the winter."

Yes, here is a great list of the travelers—but I see that there is a list given too of those who are coming to spend the winter here.

"Where will be the Nuthatch Family and the Song Sparrows and some Sea Ducks and Loons and the Woodpecker family. I read that they will be arriving very soon now.

"It also says in the 'Natureland News' that a good many of the birds will not leave until later, among them are Mr. and Mrs. Chippy Sparrow, Mr. and Mrs. Vesper Sparrow, Mr. and Mrs. Lark and Mr. and Mrs. Scamp Sparrow.

"A good many of the insect birds left as soon as Jack Frost had arrived for his frolicsome visits.

"Well," Witty Witch added, "I think it is nice to hear of the different creatures traveling, for we know how much we get about and see the world and how much we enjoy it too.

"And it is fun to read all what I see in the 'Natureland News' for it tells us all the news of what is happening in Old Mother Nature's beautiful world."

"We love hearing what is in the 'Natureland News,'" all the Fairies and people said.

Those things I love because they are so fair—
My woodland path through banks of maiden-hair,
The shade bush shining in the naked wood,
The mountain hiding in its cloudy hood.

Those things I love, but more than all the rest
I love the longing and the eager quest
For beauty dreamed, that makes us still aspire
Beyond the world time to the heart's desire.

OLD-FASHIONED DISHES.

Who doesn't like corn pudding? Take a can of corn, one egg, one-half cupful of thin cream and salt to taste. Mix, put into a baking dish, dot with a generous quarter of a cup of butter and bake for twenty minutes. Nice to serve with chicken.

Corn Muffins.—Beat two eggs, add a tablespoonful of melted lard, a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and two cupfuls of corn meal. Add enough milk to make a thin batter. Grease muffin pans or rings, pour in batter and bake one-half hour.

Nesselrode Pudding.—This is a pudding that never loses its popularity except with the cook who has to prepare it. Soak one-half box of gelatin in one cupful of water until soft. Put a pint of milk to heat in the double boiler. Beat the yolks of five eggs with two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and add the hot milk. Put in a dozen crushed macaroons, one-half cupful of blanched almonds and two-thirds of a cup of Moscatel raisins. Cook in a double boiler until thickened stirring constantly; add the soaked gelatin, five drops of almond extract, one teaspoonful of vanilla and set in a cold place. When it begins to stiffen, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of five eggs. Mold and serve with whipped cream.

Flummary.—Make a rich custard, using six eggs and one quart of milk, with sugar to sweeten. Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk, add two ounces of gelatin which has been softened in a little of the milk. Whip one quart of cream, sweeten with one cupful of sugar, add the gelatin to custard and, when cool, the whipped cream. Pour into molds and sift over crushed macaroons. Flavored with vanilla.

Mesopotamia Picturesque.

Mesopotamia, land of the Garden of Eden and Mount Ararat, is just as much a picturesque spot as when Cain and Abel were boys, but it is almost overshadowed by its historical setting, says a National Geographic Society bulletin. Along the Tigris river are boats which look more like tubs. They are made of wicker, from five to ten feet in diameter, and are tarred to make them waterproof. They are called "pootas." Other water craft are rafts with blow-up coaskins attached to give them buoyancy. This is a land of dates. There are date trees everywhere there are any trees at all. Every courtyard, the secluded scene of family life, has its date trees, and trees and cupolas form a quaint sky line.

If You Suffer from Constipation Read this Message Immediately!

About 90% of all can be blamed on constipation—one of the greatest enemies of the human race! Pills and cathartics aggravate dangerous conditions in the delicate intestinal tract while affording but temporary relief!

The great, natural cleanser is bran—KELLOGG'S BRAN, cooked and krumbled! If you eat bran regularly it will give relief permanently! Its work is wonderful!

Physicians endorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation because it is a desirable way of correcting constipation through food. Bran is nature's food—not a "remedy!"

Do not think of Kellogg's Bran as you think of pills and cathartics which never can afford permanent relief! Pills and cathartics aggravate already dangerous conditions. Kellogg's Bran sweeps the bowels naturally, cleansing and purifying the intestinal tract without irritation or discomfort! Regular use, that the regular use of Kellogg's Bran will clear up a pimply complexion and it will free the breath from disagreeable stomach odors. At least two tablespoonfuls should be eaten daily, and as much more as needed for relief of chronic cases.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious served as a cereal, or it can be sprinkled over your favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor adding a delightful zest to breakfast! Kellogg's Bran is delicious in raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, gravies, etc.

Start the family eating Kellogg's Bran tomorrow morning! Kellogg's will actually build up the kiddies into fine robust health! Your grocer has it.

Reliance satisfies that coffee appetite

Reliance Coffee has that rich heavy breakfasty-odor that makes you hungry the moment you sniff it. A smell that pours right out into the cup as taste!

No other coffee satisfies your coffee appetite so completely because Reliance really tastes as good as it smells.

Have your grocer bring you a trial pound; then make it this way:

One heaping tablespoonful for each cup and one for the pot. Have the pot hot. Put the dry coffee in the bottom of the pot and pour on actual boiling water. Set on stove and let come to a boil for two minutes. Remove and stir in the top grounds. Just before serving add two tablespoonsful of cold water. Serve Promptly.

Reliance Coffee is sold only in sealed oval canisters, bearing our name. Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

What to Learn.

There are five things in life we ought to learn. Here they are:

1. Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine.
2. Learn to tell a helpful story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick room.
3. Learn to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to linger over your ills and sorrows.
4. Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.
5. Learn to greet your friends with a smile. They carry too many frowns in their hearts to be bothered with any of yours.

Another reason some loafers oppose modern improvements like cement walks is that it takes three or four hours after sundown for a cement curb on the east side of the street to cool off sufficiently for sitting purposes.

Be What You Am.

Don't be what you ain't.
Jes be what you is.
If you is not what you am,
Then you am not what you is.
If you're just a little tadpole
Don't try to be a frog.
If you're just the tall,
Don't try to wag the dog.
You can always pass the plate.
If you can't exhort and preach.
If you're just a little pebble.
Don't try to be the beach.
Don't be what you ain't.
Jes, be what you is.
For the man who plays it square
Is a-goin' to get 'his.'

A soft drink turneth away customers.

And furthermore all is not beer that bubbles.

A Druggist's Blunder.
"Guess I made a bad mistake just now," said the druggist.
"Fatal?"
"Not necessarily. Gifl wanted a grand opera record and I gave her a speech by William J. Bryan."

Why He Was Curious.
Two dusky devotees of the Goddess of Chance became involved in an altercation over a crap game.
"Look heah, chile," said one, "yo' triflin' wid me an' dere'll be a brass ban' playin' ahead of yo' cyar, wif yo' de onliest one no enjoyin' de music."

"Say yo' so I'll boy. Now I axes yo', is yo' got any conspicuous an' prominent birmarks or odder distinguishin' means of identification?"
"Who, be? Nossuh. Ah's a lamb wifout spot of blemish. Why is yo' so curious?"
"Only dis. Ise wonderin' how, 'thout dem, is yo' mammy dwine rockenize yo' remains when dey sweeps de pieces up 'in one li'l plate."

Fighting Facts.

It is better to give than to grab.
It is more blessed to accommodate than to accumulate.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

They, too, made this whiteness test, without boiling

Before Monday comes, think of the thousands of women who have made the famous P and G whiteness test.

Most of all, think of the reasons why they made the test. These women were determined to find the best soap they could buy—they realized that there must be a difference between old-fashioned and modern soap

Were they right? See for yourself. Here is the test: On Monday next, wash as you always do, but do not boil your clothes. Wash them with P and G The White Naphtha Soap, without boiling or scalding, and omit hard rubbing.

You will find your clothes white, beautifully white and clean. The soap does it, does it alone without the help of boiling. P and G does preserve that snowy whiteness of which you have always been so particular.

You could use the soap equally well with boiling, but you make the test this way as the hardest test the soap could have. It is the best way to show that whatever your washing method, P and G will make your clothes white—the one positive necessity with every particular housekeeper.

Whether or not you boil your clothes is a matter of preference. Thousands of P and G users never boil them at all.

Note, too, that P and G proves equally safe for Colored Clothes

You can treat white and colored clothes alike. The colored clothes (perhaps half your wash) present no problem at all. They wash perfectly clean and the colors are uninjured.

Its remarkable ability to keep clothes white has caused P and G The White Naphtha Soap to grow from nothing to the largest selling laundry soap in America.

Only 10 Pounds of these luscious flakes

A bushel of choice oats yields only ten pounds of delicious Mother's Oats.

We use just the richest, plumpest grains.

Note the flakes of Mother's Oats—large and luscious. Note the flavor. Only premier grains can make oats so delightful.

The oat is supreme food. It embodies 16 needed elements.

It is the body-builder and the vim-food.

It is economical. Equal food value in meat foods costs 9 or 10 times as much.

Then why not serve the best?

Mother's Oats, with all their extra flavor, cost but one-half cent per dish.

BUGS EAT ROOF OF ANCIENT HALL

Westminster Saved From Ruin
by Steel Girders.

WAS LAST REPAIRED IN 1399

Famous Building Withstands Weather for Centuries Only to Have Its Safety Menaced by Death's Head Beetle—Adventurous Boy Discovers Have Wrought by Insects and When He Grows Up the Job of Renovating the Building Falls to Him.

Back in 1899, Master Hugh Herland, the king's carpenter, carried out a job of renovation. His work was to repair the roof of Westminster hall, which had been erected by William Rufus, some 300 years previously, in the village of Westminster, then separated from the city of London by a mile or so of open country, writes Harold E. Scarborough in the New York Tribune.

It is not on record whether Master Hugh, on surveying his work, remarked that he guessed that would hold "em for a while, or voiced a similar sentiment in the phrasing of his time. But in the 600 years that followed nobody ever accused Hugh Herland of being a jerry-builder. The storms and suns of six centuries played upon the oak roof covering that he had erected for this palace of kings, but still it fulfilled its allotted functions.

"Now, it is exceedingly doubtful whether Master Herland ever had heard of a little fellow named Xestobium Tesselatum. People of the present day know of this chap as the "death's head beetle." His food and his home alike are wood; nice, dry, mellowed oak for preference. For untold years thousands of insects of this species had been busily devouring Master Herland's timbers, and early in the present century it was discovered that, technically speaking, there was no reason why the famous oak-beamed roof should not have collapsed long since.

Found by Boy.

That discovery was made by a boy named Frank Baines, who had climbed as an adventure up among the top rafters of the famous old hall which now, almost surrounded by the modern houses of parliament, is to the casual observer scarcely distinguishable from the rest of the Gothic pile. Years passed, and it befell that the boy became Sir Frank Baines and the principal architect of the office of works.

One of his first acts in his new capacity was to carry out a thorough investigation of the roof of Westminster hall and to report that, unless the ravages of the beetles were checked, the arches and hammer beams and trusses could not possibly remain in position much longer. In 1914, a start was made on the work of restoration; but, of course, the war cut it short.

After the war, the necessary funds being forthcoming, the work was again taken up. It had been decided to build what virtually amounted to a skeleton roof of steel under the old oak girders, in such a fashion that from the ground the alteration would be practically invisible. Previous to this, however, the boring insects had to be considered; since it was obvious that the rest of the ancient oak would soon disappear were this not done. The suggestion was made that the hall be sealed up and filled with chloroform; but members of parliament, perhaps scenting a new Guy Fawkes plot, vetoed it. Next a disinfectant called "tetrachloroethane" was used with some success, until the smell of it penetrated into the chamber of the house of commons. Then it, too, had to be abandoned. Finally, a mixture was found which did not possess too offensive a smell, and from tall towers, reminiscent of fire towers in an American city, the rafters and beams were deluged with this preparation.

Job Is Completed.

As each beam and truss was thoroughly soaked with the insecticide, the work of placing a steel frame behind it continued; and now the last one is in place. From the floor of the hall, where the most notable state trials of England, including those of William Wallace, Sir Thomas More, Anne Boleyn, Somerset, Strafford, Charles I, the Seven Bishops, Lovat, Ferrers and Warren Hastings, have been held, very little of the work of restoration is visible. Here and there a bit of light oak shows up against the golden-colored wood placed in position in 1399; but all the new wood used has come from the Weald of Sussex (where the original timbers grew), and should soon go into harmony with its surroundings.

An idea of the magnitude of the invisible repairs may be gained from the fact that they cost approximately $500,000.

Died Trying to Recover Pipe. Climbing down into a well to recover a pipe he had dropped, Martin Toho, sixteen years old, of Iola, Kan., was overcome by gas and toppled into the water at the bottom of the pit. He was dead when his body was recovered.

Boy Asks Lift and Is Killed in Car. After asking a passing motorist for a lift and being accommodated, Robert Marsh, a youth of Hamilton, O., was killed when the machine was wrecked by a bursting tire.

MARSHAL CAUSES BREAK IN PETTICOAT GOVERNMENT

"No Job for a Woman," Says
Mrs. Bertha Ward, Handing
Her Star to a Man.

The nation's first complete petticoat city government is no more, for Mrs. Bertha Ward, village marshal of Des Lacs, N. D., has resigned because the "job was too tough," as she explained in submitting her resignation to the remainder of the feminine city "mothers." Mrs. Ward has handed over her polished star to Daniel Olson, municipal section foreman here, who now swings the lead-loaded billy and preserves order in the village.

Mrs. Ward's reasons for resigning were concise and to the point.

No. 1 was that her husband thought the job was too hazardous for the consideration; and second, the job was never intended for a woman of small stature.

"Lack of physical prowess went against me," declared Mrs. Ward. "Drunk persons and others would just laugh at me, and I was almost helpless to do anything."

Meanwhile, consternation reigns among the other women officials of Des Lacs. To the outside world they are afraid that the resignation looks like their regime is a failure. They tried to prevail upon Mrs. Ward to remain in office until the next village election, but she "had had enough," she told them.

Mrs. Ward did not make any arrests while she was in office. She tried to make one, but the man who was acting in a disorderly manner jerked away from her and ran. She telephoned to Deputy Sheriff C. P. Vandenoever at Minot, the county seat, but when he arrived it was found that the justice of the peace did not have a warrant blank; so the sleepy deputy, roused in the middle of a night's slumber, journeyed back to Minot and the arrest was not effected.

"It's a man's job, without doubt," declares Mrs. Ward. "I couldn't be prevailed upon again to accept such a position."

TRAVELS 20,000 MILES TO STUDY CATTLE RAISING

Julio Paimao Cortes, twenty-six years, who has come all the way from southern Brazil, where his father owns a 14,000-acre ranch near Bage, in Rio Grande do Sul, to the United States, to study our methods of breeding and raising Hereford cattle. His father has 3,000 of the white-faced "beef machines" in his own herd.

Senior Cortes, who has been attending the University of Illinois and the Iowa State Agricultural college, is now getting practical experience at Cedar Croft Hereford farm, near Kansas City.

"Herefords are the most numerous beef breed in Brazil," he says, "and they have a great future there."

SIoux CLIMB ON THE WAGON

Indian Temperance Society Formed at Fort Totten Reservation.

The Volstead urge has hit the Sioux nation. At least, it has hit the old braves, who have come to the conclusion something must be done to keep the younger ones sober.

Therefore, the Sioux Indians stationed on the Fort Totten reservation in North Dakota have organized the Indian Temperance society, whose purpose it is to induce the younger Indians and those older ones who still think they need "fire water" to get on the Volstead wagon.

The first act of the temperance society was to call upon Police Chief Peter Timboe of Devils Lake and ask his co-operation. A number of younger Sioux braves, when they drive into Devils Lake, have been in the habit of buying lemon and vanilla extract, and other things containing alcohol.

The Indians requested the police chief to use his influence to prevent the various merchants or others in the city selling extract or canned heat to the Indians, and they offered to enlist themselves as special officers to arrest the young Indians for intoxication.

156TH REGIMENT
HOLDS REUNION

Few Left To Gather At New Paltz
But Spirits Of These are in Nowise Dimmed—Officers Elected And New Paltz Chosen For Next Reunion.

The glorious October day, Thursday, the nineteenth, was indeed typical of the spirit that pervaded the reunion of the 156th Regiment
"Boys," held at New Paltz. There was all the rich ripening of the maturing year, a crisp zest to the air, sunshine and blue sky and never a thought as to "The scar and yellow leaf," that exactly corresponded to the spirit of perpetual youth in the ripening lives of the men who foregathered at the "Blue Crane Inn," at New Paltz Thursday morning.

The program for the day was to open with a business session which was to be followed by dinner and a camp fire in the afternoon. Now it should be stated that the proprietor of the Blue Crane Inn can serve a delicious dinner but he evidently was not accustomed to entertaining G. A. R.
Veteran reunions, for during the business session the majority of the veterans were obliged to stand as there were no chairs provided.

Ten-thirty o'clock had been the time set for the business session, but as the president, S. D. U. Barnes, did not arrive at that hour, the "boys" just visited and "reminded," apparently having their campfire round the glow of a kerosene stove to open the program instead of closing it.

Battles of the Civil War were re-won or lost; escapades were related;
comrades of other days were recalled;
and here and there a word of wisdom relative to present history as the outcome of past history was heard. And still, greatly to the mystification of those present, no president appeared.
So finally first vice-president, John S.
Thompson of Kingston called the meeting to order, and presided over its deliberations.

Now Mr. Thompson and several of his comrades have been attending similar reunions for over fifty years, yet it was a noteworthy fact that the business session went off with a despatch and system that could well be emulated by gatherings requiring a business session today.

The minutes of the last meeting,
which was also held in New Paltz, were read by Secretary James S.
Patridge, and were approved as read.

Then followed roll call, which was here and there interspersed by the announcement by the secretary of word or letter from some absent comrade unable to be present on account of ill health, and sending best wishes to all. The roll call showed the following comrades present:
Samuel McDaniel, Company B;
Charles Schoonmaker, Company D;
Edmund Patridge, Samuel Patridge,
James S. Patridge, James H. Relyea,
Company E; George H. Dunn, John
Staff and John S. Thompson, Company G; John Young, Company I; John Roe and S. D. U. Barnes, who had met with an accident while en route, arriving later. There were also present C. Meach Woolsey and J. H. Martin, honorary members, and Alfred Wands of Poughkeepsie elected an honorary member. Since the last reunion tips have been usually sounded for Comrades George Blake, Willis Markle and David G.
Ellis.

Following the roll call, Treasurer
Samuel Patridge reported $51.64 in the treasury and his report was accepted as read.

The election of officers came next,
resulting as follows: Samuel Mc-Daniels, president; John Young, first vice-president; James Relyea, second vice-president; George J. Dunn, secretary; Samuel Patridge, treasurer; finance committee, George H.
Meach, Edmund Patridge, Richard Elmendorf, S. D. U. Barnes.

It was decided to hold the next reunion, October 19th, 1923, again at New Paltz. The business session then adjourned, and the "Company"
"marched" to the dining room where a delicious dinner was served, each table being decorated with autumnal flowers, with a tiny silk American flag at each place.

The day was so glorious, the sun so bright and warm that after the dinner the veterans and the ladies who accompanied them adjourned to the porch of the inn where the men enjoyed their after-dinner cigars.
After chatting together for half an hour or so, it was agreed by all that owing to the small number present, a further "camp fire," would be discussed with for this reunion, and the comrades left for their homes after a refreshing and happy, if brief reunion.

Vitality of Coffee in Haiti.
The remarkable vitality of the coffee plant is shown in Haiti, where, it is said, no coffee has been planted since the French colonists were dispossessed of their plantations 120 years ago. The natives have merely profited from the rich farm heritage seized from their employers and rulers, and lacking even rudimentary care and cultivation, the coffee fields have lost their original productivity and have become over-spread with thickets and weeds. Today there are scarcely any clearly defined coffee fields, the plants being allowed to grow wild and to become mixed with rank growths of every sort.
Notwithstanding this neglect coffee is by far the most valuable product of Haiti's commerce. The bulk of the yield goes to France. Added to neglect of the plants, the Haitian coffee
"raiser" injures his plants by tearing off branches with the pods, and thus diminishes productivity.

Divorce Easy Matter in Assam.
In Assam the woman who tires of her husband and prefers another companion simply calls her husband to her. They sit down and have a perfectly friendly chat, and she offers him a sum of money in exchange for her freedom. The husband then packs his clothes, takes his money and departs. In a few days his place may be taken by another, but this does not even cause a comment in the "smart set" of Assam.

Simple China Cement.
To mend china or glassware, make a very thick solution of gum arabic and stir into it plaster of paris until the mixture is of proper consistency. About one ounce each is about the proper quantity to use. Apply with a brush to the broken edges, press together, tie into position and press a few days when it will be perfectly firm. This makes a white cement.

Early Dabblers in Dentistry.
The first physician to speak of treating the teeth is Galen (131-200 A. D.). The science of dentistry, however, may be said to date from 1839, when Prof. Richard Newton patented out "the organic connection between the vascular and the vital soft parts of the frame and the hard substance of the teeth." His work appeared in 1840-1845.

MADE CRUELTY TO CATTLE UNLAWFUL

British Noble Gets First Law Passed in 1822.

HUMANE SOCIETIES CELEBRATE

Richard Martin introduced in the British Parliament the first Act providing for punishment for the "ill-treatment of cattle"—forced its passage in the face of strong opposition—King George IV named him "Humanity Martin."

Braving the opposition of colleagues and opponents, Richard Martin introduced in the British parliament in 1822 an act providing for punishment for the "ill-treatment of cattle" and by the force of his personality forced its passage as a law.

Humane societies throughout England and the United States are now observing the centenary of the enactment of this law which for the first time in any country made it unlawful to abuse animals.

"Humanity" Martin, so named by King George IV because of his support of the law was an intense Irish nobleman with immense estates in Galway, where he lived in the manner of a feudal lord when not attending parliament.

Was Noted Duelist. The nobleman had infinite personal courage and was a duelist of note. But with his courage and duelling proclivities was a genuine Irish humor, wild and turbulent at times. He always loved animals and disliked ill-treatment of them.

After introducing his bill Martin was asked to withdraw it for amendment and introduction at the following session. One opponent declared he could not see why, under the terms of the bill, a punishment could not be affixed to the killing of lobsters and the eating of live oysters.

To all opposition Martin replied with more vigorous support and made a strong appeal at the second reading. After his appeal a vote was taken and the "ayes" stood 29 against 18 "noes." The bill passed its third reading in commons, June 7, 1822.

To Martin, also, belongs the credit for the first conviction under the law he fostered. Martin appeared as complainant against a driver who had mercilessly beaten a donkey. The animal was dragged into court, and Martin so impressed the court with the evidence the donkey bore of its master's cruelty that the driver was found guilty, much to the surprise of observers, who crowded the court room.

Animal Baiting Barred. Less than a year after Martin's death at Boulogne, France, in 1834, his original act was amended, and bull and bear baiting and cock fighting were prohibited throughout the British Isles.

While credit is given the great and general court of Massachusetts, in 1911, for passing an act declaring that "no man shall exercise any tyranny toward any brute creatures which usually are kept for the use of man," Martin's act is recognized as the first law expressly forbidding ill-treatment of animals.

Two years after the passage of the act Martin and several friends, realizing the law would be valueless without proper enforcement, organized the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Queen Victoria later giving her approval to the addition of the word "Royal" to the title. From the society originated first the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and later the state societies.

STOLEN RINGS RETURNED

Missing Many Years, They Were Sent Back by Mail.

Two valuable diamond rings, stolen more than seventeen years ago from the home of Mrs. C. B. Filcraft of Oak Park, Chicago, were returned anonymously one day recently.

At the time of the theft Mrs. Filcraft was entertaining for Miss Liliuotok, Neoga, Ill., a guest of Mrs. Fannie Richardson of Chicago. Miss Liliuotok, the owner of the rings, left them on a tray in her room and a short time later they disappeared. She suspected a certain maid, but Mrs. Filcraft scouted the idea, saying that she had every confidence in the girl.

A few days ago Mrs. Filcraft received the rings together with a repentant letter, asking that the jewelry be returned to its owner, who is now Mrs. Leon Short and still lives in Neoga. The question the Filcraft family is trying to solve is who returned his rings.

Tobacco Pays Italy Well.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, the tobacco monopoly in Italy gave the state 2,500,000,000 lire, or about $125,000,000. During the same period the post, telegraph and telephone services showed a deficit of $25,000,000. The telephone service is badly in need of new equipment, that in use today being very much out of date. New installations will call for heavy expenditures. The reason for the deficit in the public services is to be found in the greatly increased wages demanded by the personnel, who were described the other day as being in a "permanent state of agitation for higher pay."

LOCAL ADVERTISERS OF 40 YEARS AGO WERE LIVE ONES

Editor, The Freeman: Looking over copies of the daily newspapers of October 18, 1882, forty years ago, I found the advertisers on that day were wide awake as they are now-days. I append a list of some and of the forty-five noted there is only one advertiser who is living in Kingston, being Jerome Williams. The list is as follows:

D. A. Ainley, jeweler, Union avenue, Rondout.

PRACTICAL REFORM IN PRISON LABOR

Governor Miller's Plan Provides Payment to the Prisoner for His Work.

NO MAWKISH SENTIMENT

Dependent Families of Prisoners Will Thus Be Provided for So That the Innocent Will Not Suffer
With the Guilty.

Perhaps the most far-reaching reform in the management of the state prisons and the employment of prison labor has been undertaken by Governor Miller. He does not claim credit for the idea. It has long been urged by the National Committee on Prisons and Labor but has fallen on deaf ears because there was no sentimental appeal involved.

It is a plain, simple, business proposition. The convict is imprisoned for the benefit of society. His dependent family must suffer the disgrace. There is no way of avoiding that. But hitherto the dependent family has also been deprived of its means of support. All the plans for the reform of the prisoner have hitherto concerned themselves solely with the prisoner himself, his education and even his entertainment.

To pay the prisoner for his labor and place that labor on an economic basis is the plan now being put into operation throughout the prisons of the state under legislation passed last winter. This must involve the reorganization of all the prison labor plants, many of which are antiquated, and co-operation with the new state purchasing department, for the product of the prison labor finds its market in the needs of the state government itself. These needs must be standardized in order that the product of the state's prison factories may be put out at a cost which will warrant the payment of the laborer in the state prison what the labor is worth.

Not a Political Issue
All this is not or should not be an issue in a political campaign. It is only made so through the differing views of the two candidates for governor. Ex-Governor Smith was an advocate of that class of prison reform which made the prisons of the state rather attractive than otherwise with all the kind things that were done for the prisoners and the liberal pardons and commutations granted by the governor held forth promise of speedy liberation in reward for good behavior and perhaps on the inducement of influential friends.

These pardons and commutations were so liberally granted that the Herald newspapers described it as the "Smith jail delivery," and Governor Smith has criticised Governor Miller on the stump for a lack of "human sympathy" on the subject of pardons and commutations.

Governor Miller retorts that he has just as much "human sympathy" as his critic, but has also a high regard for the safety and welfare of the public. He also takes into consideration the fact that nothing has been done hitherto to ameliorate the condition of the innocent sufferers—the wife and children of the culprit.

Indorsed by Prison Association
The plan inaugurated by Governor Miller receives the hearty indorsement and support of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Charles H. North, chairman of its Committee on State Institutions, has issued a statement commending the plan in detail as follows:

"New York clubwomen are proud of the work our state is doing in connection with its prison system. Tremendous progress has been made during the past two years, due to the program outlined by Governor Miller and carried through by the legislature. We are in agreement with the prison program presented to the women of this country by Mr. Hugh Frazer, general organizer American Federation of Labor, at the recent Chautauqua convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and are glad to say that it is identically the same as that of Governor Miller, which is fast being put into operation in the state.

"Adequate wages for prisoners is to us, as women, the measure most important to secure. The payment to the prisoner of wage equal to the full value of his labor, after the cost of his keep has been deducted, is the only right way to provide for those dependent upon him. The heaviest penalty for crime has always been paid by the prisoner's wife and children, and Mr. Frazer was right in charging the women of the country to see that this 'real justice' is done away with. We are glad, indeed, that wage legislation was enacted in this state last year.

"Prisons exist primarily for the protection of society but this is not accomplished unless the prisoner is trained while in prison in some work at which he can make an honest living when released. Moreover, if prison industries are developed to train the prisoner the returns from these industries will gradually make the prisons self-supporting and take a heavy burden off the taxpayer."

Indorsed by Labor Leaders
The industrialization of prisons, as Mr. Frazer calls it, means that only those men should be sent to the industrial prisons who are mentally and physically fit for work. The insane and feeble-minded must be sent to hospitals and custodial institutions; the sick cured in hospitals before they go to prison. Those men who are physically and mentally fit for prison must be assigned there to work for which they are adapted. This sorting out process will be provided for in New York state as soon as the new classification station, now nearing completion at Sing Sing is in operation.

The first step in the industrialization of the prisons of this state was taken when the state prison industrial manager, Mr. Giffin, was appointed by Governor Miller—a man outstanding in his profession of industrial engineering, not the old type of political appointee.

The success of any prison industrial system depends largely on securing an adequate market for the goods produced in the prison workshops. In this state we are fortunate in having a constitutional provision keeping prison-made goods off the open market and providing that they shall be sold to state institutions and departments. Twenty-three million dollars is expended annually for commodities used in these institutions and departments. This amount includes commodities which can be produced successfully by prison industries in quantities large enough to provide an adequate market for prison products. In the past, however, each institution had its own purchasing agent, who purchased whatever lines of goods appealed to him. Consequently the orders in any one line of goods were not large enough to be produced profitably in the prison workshops. For instance, the warden of Sing Sing prison received orders for over thirty kinds of shoes in one year. No shop could produce so many kinds and run on a paying basis. This state of affairs will end as soon as the central purchase of supplies and standardization of commodities provided for in last year's legislation are developed. A standard specification will then be adopted for every commodity and all will be purchased by one central purchase department. This adaptation of the same purchase system used by business corporations to the purchase of commodities for governmental consumption will make possible quantity production in the prisons which is essential to the successful operation of prison industries.

What the Governor Says

Governor Miller has stated his position as to this new departure in prison reform as follows:

"We have gone through a period in this state in which there has been a great deal of mawkish sentiment developed in reference to the penal institutions. The thought has been that the prisons should be made more attractive, that means should be provided to entertain the prisoners, and some, if they had their say, would make the prisons so attractive that men would commit crimes to get into the prisons, because it must be considered that the class of men who commit crimes are, as a rule, those who do not have the most comfortable ways of living outside of the prisons.

"Men commit crime by mistake, from weakness, who are not really criminals but the main class of criminals are recruited from those who either from neglect in early years neglect perhaps to remove some physical or mental handicap, or neglect of proper training to start them along the right lines instead of in evil ways, are led into criminal paths, and many of them can be made as comfortable inside as outside of prisons, though, of course, all like their liberty."

"I have undertaken and have already inaugurated a plan which will really do more to reclaim the human material in the prisons than all of the efforts backed by mawkish sentimentality, at which these men themselves laugh."

NEW STATE CHAIRMAN

George K. Morris of Amsterdam Takes Hold With a Right Good Will.

Called by the State Committee to lead his party in the campaign for the re-election of Governor Miller at its meeting at Albany, September 28

GEORGE K. MORRIS

George K. Morris of Amsterdam has taken hold with energetic optimism. Not contented with sitting at headquarters in New York he has gone about the state with words of cheer and encouragement and the ability he displayed in perfecting the Republican organization of Montgomery county is again displayed in a wider field.

During the last year Mr. Morris has served as chairman of the State Athletic Commission, under appointment by Governor Miller and his business-like administration of that department enabled the commission to earn its own expenses and turn $350,000 surplus into the state treasury.

Frog Carries Young in Pouch.

Lions symbolize Africa; tigers, Asia; and the kangaroos, Australia, but South America's most characteristic creature is the frog, says A. Kingsley Noble in the Mentor Magazine. There are no important mammals in South America, but there are more kinds of frogs there than anywhere else in the world. Of these there is no more interesting one than the marsupial frog, which carries its young in a pouch on its back. Noble spent many days with a Harvard museum of comparative zoology expedition studying South American frogs.
